Village, township set framework for intergovernmental parks projects

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Members of the board of directors of the village of Antioch and open space committee members of the township board met to hash out details that will shape the framework for an intergovernmental agreement between the two entities for joint parks projects.

Trustee Dorothy Larson, who called the committee of the whole meeting, said she had instructed village attorney Bob Long to set up simple guidelines that would establish an eventual intergovernmental agreement for the 40.24 acres on Depot Street and later the newly acquired Rena Avenue property.

Long said, "I tried to write up a simple agreement that would be self-governing. This is just something for discussion, a starting point."

The two-page memorandum created by Long outlines individual and joint responsibilities including ownership, design of improvements, payment for improvements, job oversight, maintenance, scheduling of events, liability and the term of the agreement. Members of the two elected boards stressed the importance of establishing an agreement that would be as "non-political" as possible as boards will inevitably change over the years.

The term was set at the maximum allowed by state law: 20 years.

"It's a marriage made in hell," said Long. "It's going for 20 years, like it or not."

The committee determined that Alan Probst, village administrator, would make a suitable primary liaison as he has experience working on similar projects, and is an employee of the village and not an elected official of either the village or the township. He would have the authority to make decisions in emergency situations that would then be ratified by the joint board.

"This is nothing new to me," Probst said.

Beyond informally agreeing to very basic terms, Long stressed that money would have to be appropriated and budgeted before too much more could be done to further the Depot Street project from vacant land into a viable park.

Glen Eriksson, president of Eriksson Engineering, who attended the meeting in an advisory capacity, said that there are disadvantages to accepting grant money.

"There are strings attached with grant money," he said. "There are conditions, not laws, that must be followed to using state grant money. There are some who wouldn't take grant money even if they could get it, because of the conditions that have to be followed."

Claudette Skvarce, Antioch Township board member and open space committee member said she would like to see an endowment fund set up within the next month or two.

"This fund would be used by both (township and village), and shared by both," she said. "This is for the future of Antioch. It would allow people to leave money, or maybe farmland, that would specifically go toward adding to and enhancing the parks available for use by everyone."

Footlights offers fun for over-21

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Footlights, the largest fund-raiser to benefit St. Peter School, will only take place on one weekend this year: Friday and Saturday, Nov. 7 and 8. There will be no second weekend of music, gambling, dancing, food and the other typical attractions.

"This is the 22nd annual Footlights. We were finding that one weekend was filling up pretty well, but the other wasn't," said Linda Pedersen, one of the event organizers. "We're hoping to have two really packed nights with this change."

The event offers plenty of bang for the buck with several different themed rooms of food and entertainment for a mere $10 in advance, or $12 at the door, though the cost of food and libation is extra.

"This year we're having one room called the Sound Garden where the band 215 West will play a variety of music from the '40s through Motown," Pedersen said. "Comedian Mike Toomey has his first stint at Footlights, warming up the room from 7-8 p.m. before the band performs."

Black Jack and Diamond Jim's is Antioch's oldest established casino and will be open from 7 p.m.-midnight. The sports bar will be back as well.

Another change this year is that it is entirely smoke-free.

Pedersen said, "We've had smoking in at least some of the areas in the past, but we just cannot do that anymore."

Other returning traditions include the Lip Sync room that always attracts a variety of local celebrities (at least they are celebrities by the time they leave) and the PM&L Presents... room.

New features are a Karaoke room and guitar bar with Tuck Pence providing six-stringed entertainment. Pence will perform music in the rock-a-billy style of groups like the Allman Brothers.

Additionally, Joann's Hideaway Café will serve everything from sandwiches to full meals and desserts.

Tickets can be purchased in advance from the First National Bank-Employee Owned, State Bank of The Lakes, St. Peter School, St. Peter Rectory, Ipsen American Family Insurance and Realty World-Tiffany.

'Sharefest' art show helps churches support school

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

As the name would imply, Sharefest is about "sharing" responsibility and undertaking projects that help the community.

The project was started by four area churches: Antioch Evangelical Free Church, Chain of Lakes Community Bible Church, Christian Life Fellowship and North Bridge Church, to help the Grass Lake School in its time of need.

Three businesswomen are sharing their talents to raise money for the cause. Funds from a benefit art show at Angie's (Childers) Italian Market and Café, on Saturday, Nov.

9, from 2-5 p.m., will be used in support of the Sharefest project of rehabilitating a used building on the Grass Lake School campus.

Artist Diane Powers, owner of Framesake Art, had the idea for the show and said, "Such a large percentage of the population doesn't realize what these churches do. Here these four churches are working together to raise money for this school in the true spirit of God."

The Sharefest philosophy is "Lake County Churches changing our community one project at a time."

It is projected that the Grass

Dusty Simoni, right, lieutenant governor of the Division 7 Kiwanis, congratulates Melissa Rigoni, newly elected president of the Kiwanis Club of Antioch.

Kiwanis announces officers

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Victor Rigoni, outgoing president of the Kiwanis Club of Antioch, passed the gavel and announced the newly elected officers for the 2003-04 year.

Melissa Rigoni replaces Victor as president of the club. Marlene Swoboda was elected vice president, Carl Sand was elected treasurer and Nancy Wallner secretary.

The board of directors includes Phyllis Zora, Victor Rigoni and Jennifer Chevalier. Paul Last and Dale Craig, long-time members from Zion and Grayslake clubs, respectively, will serve as advisors.

According to Zora, the club has been in existence for about 18 months and has the ultimate goal of helping children learn to be volunteers. The club is currently supporting the Builders Club of the Antioch Upper Grade School with the assistance of Eric Skoog, the school's principal and faculty advisor to the youth club.

"This is very worthwhile," Zora said. "It's important to foster volunteerism in kids."

She said Kiwanis has no similar program at the high school level, though there have been discussions.

"If nothing else, we hope that those in the Builders Club will want to continue on when they leave the (Antioch) Upper Grade (School) and that something will then naturally progress to the high school level," Zora said.

According to Zora, there are nine Kiwanis clubs in Lake County and more than 600,000 members in 75 countries worldwide. The common goal is to serve the world through children.

Zora said, "We're involved in anything that revolves around kids. We're involved with safety issues, parent education, pediatric trauma and anything else that has to do with young children."

The Antioch club meets at noon on Tuesdays at the Double Eagle Restaurant, just north of the intersection of routes 59 and 173. Those interested are welcome to stop by the restaurant to meet with club members.

For more information, call Zora at 847-395-7385.

District 34 tries to stabilize board

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

This past summer, it was back to the drawing board for Antioch Community Consolidated District 34 as it sought to replace board member Mark Oldroyd, who replaced long-standing board member Gary Burnette about three months prior.

Within several weeks of replacing Oldroyd, who was transferred out of state, with Mike Nielsen, an Antioch native, board of education member Cheryl Henning resigned.

Of Nielsen, Superintendent John Hunt said, "He's young, a graduate of Northern Illinois University. I think he'll bring something new to the board."

Nielsen said he wanted to become a board of education member for District 34 because a strong school district is important, and because he knew he would be in Antioch "for a while." He said there was a "little bit of a learning curve," but that he's up to speed.

With Henning's resignation, the board will have yet another opportunity to bring a fresh face and perspective to the board as an individual needs to be appointed to fill the remainder of her term that runs until the spring of 2005. Those interested are asked to submit a letter outlining their interest in the position, as well as a resume.

Previously, Hunt said, "We aren't looking for anything specific. We like to have a well-balanced board with different backgrounds and from a variety of occupations and interests."

Individuals need to submit the information to the board by Friday, Nov. 14 by mailing it to Steve Turner, president, Antioch C.C. School District 34 Board of Education, 800 N. Main St., Antioch, IL 60002. To qualify, one must be a resident of the district.

Hunt said the board has 45 days to fill the position.

The board meets once a month, on the third Tuesday.

"In addition to our regular meeting, all board members serve on two or three committees," said Hunt. "It's a commitment of two or three meetings per month, but the committee meetings don't tend to be quite so long."

Fine Arts Foundation to celebrate 2nd anniversary

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Antioch Fine Arts Foundation will celebrate its second birthday on Friday, Nov. 14 from 6-8 p.m. at the its gallery located at 983 Main Street.

"This will be an excellent opportunity for people to come in and walk around our gallery and find out more about us," said Pixie Eslinger, publicity chair for the foundation. "We are here to encourage arts in the community."

The birthday party coincides with the reception of the foundation's November show called Turned Vessels and Two Views. This show features the work of wood artist John Eslinger, watercolorist Judith Chinski and photographer James Robellard.

Chinski and Robellard will present a pairing of works done of the same subject matter in their respective mediums, while John Eslinger will feature turned vessels made of native hardwoods.

Additional original artwork will be displayed as the gallery typically features two pieces of artwork from each of the foundation's 40 members and includes works in watercolor, acrylics, digital art, stained glass and ceramics among others.

Refreshments and hors d'oeuvres will be served.

The foundation is "dedicated to furthering the creative efforts of its members while spreading knowledge and appreciation of the visual arts."

The gallery is ever changing. Works displayed are for sale.

The Lakes Region Historical Society purchased the house, adjacent to the former Episcopal Church being rehabilitated for a second museum building, and is allowing the Fine Arts Foundation to operate its gallery there.

Both patrons and members are welcomed by the foundation. There is no set donation amount to become a patron.

To become a member, there is a one-time membership fee of $50, $45 for seniors and full-time students of any age. The yearly dues are then $30 or $25 for seniors and students.

Members pay $5 per artist hanging per month, and must work at the gallery for four hours per month.

The gallery is open to the public on Thursday from 10 a.m.-4 p.m., on Friday from 10 a.m.-6 p.m. and Saturday-Sunday from noon-4 p.m.

For gallery information, call 847-838-2274.

District 34 raises big bucks for Rusty

Antioch Community Consolidated District 34 has come to the aid of Rusty Anderson by raising over $10,000 to help cover the cost of ever-mounting medical bills associated with the treatment of Rusty's rare cancer.

The 14-year-old was diagnosed with osteo-sarcoma, a cancer that attacks the bones, earlier this year. Surgery is the most common treatment, and Rusty has already undergone more than his share of it in the past months.

Antioch Upper Grade School changed the theme of its regular Teen Canteen Halloween dance to Rockin' for Rusty. The dance raised $6,000. The entire district has participated in a penny drive that has brought in $4,700.

An account has been established through the State Bank of the Lakes for those who would like to show their support. Donation checks should be made out to Russell Anderson. Because Rusty is a minor, the checks will go into a trust account in his mother's name. Donations should be mailed to Rusty Anderson, P.O. Box 160, Antioch, IL 60002.

Though the disease is considered rare, it accounts for about 5 percent of all childhood cancers.

Billie Horton, director of special events for the Village of Antioch, has announced the winners of the Halloween Howl contests.

Costume contest winners in the under-6 years old category were Max Marconetti, Maximilian Hill and Anna Brylinke, who took first, second and third place respectively.

Mike Chappell, Mike Allen and Mikhail Donner were the first-, second- and third-place winners in the 7 to 12-year-old category. Heather Chappell, Linda Bastuga and Joe Bastuga were the winners in the over-13 years old category.

Brandon Wagener, Mickey West and Blake Wagener took the top three slots, respectively, in the under 6 years old category for pumpkin decorating.

Gina Castillo, Austin Darida and Maggie Roberts were the winners in the 7 to 12-year-old group. In the 13 years-old and up group, Dalton West, Samantha Burt and Lori Donner took first, second and third place.

Congratulations to the winners and all those who made the competition tough.

ART SHOW

Lake School project will cost several thousand dollars plus donated time and volunteer effort in the areas of clean up, carpentry, plumbing and electrical work.

The stated benefit to the community at large is to restore and beautify a deteriorating building in Antioch. The benefit to the school and its students is increased classroom space, early childhood learning purposes and housing for local student functions such as scouting and 4-H.

SuzAnne Grube-Eames, of SuzAnne's Frame Shop, joined Powers and Childers in the project because it was a natural fit.

"It's my calling," she said. "It's really a good thing for the kids and the community.

Whether it's kids, seniors or pets, I'm there to help out."

Childers said she too is all for helping with fund raising efforts that fit into her belief system. "It's nice to be able to help out," she said.

Powers said donations are being taken at the door of the art show and that all of the proceeds will benefit Sharefest and ultimately Grass Lake School. Additionally, one of her displayed paintings will benefit the project.

"There will be food and it will be a nice way to spend the afternoon," Childers said.

Angie's Italian Market and Café is located near the Antioch Train Station off of Main and Williams streets.

POLICE BEAT

Persons charged with a crime are innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

ANTIOCH

DUI

Leon G. Cuellar, 49, of 607 E. Daisy Lane, Round Lake Beach, was arrested on Route 83 south of Route 173 at 1:45 a.m. on Oct. 16 for DUI.

Police stopped Cuellar for swerving and for crossing the fog line and a double-yellow line. Following the stop, the officer detected the strong odor of alcoholic beverage on Cuellar's breath, and Cuellar failed all the field sobriety tests requested of him.

Cuellar was arrested and issued citations for DUI and improper lane usage. He refused chemical testing and was released on a $100 cash bond, plus his driver's license, pending his Nov. 18 court date.

No valid driver's license

Alvaro Martinez, 40, of 1006 Jackson, Waukegan, was arrested for driving without a valid driver's license at 2:41 a.m. on Oct. 19 on Anita Street south of Depot Street.

Police clocked Martinez traveling 38 mph in a 25-mph zone. Martinez did not have a driver's license in his possession, and a check through LEADS revealed he has no valid license.

He was arrested and issued citations for driving without a valid driver's license, speeding and having no rear registration plate light. Martinez was released on personal recognizance pending his Nov. 26 court date.

LAKE VILLA

DUI

Thomas L. Martin, 38, of 422 Meadowgreen Lane, Round Lake, was arrested by Lake Villa Police on Oct. 16, at 12:53 a.m., while driving southbound on Cedar Lake Road, south of Monaville Road. Lake Villa Police first observed the driver pull out of Nuttie's Tavern, on Grand Avenue near Cleveland Avenue, at a speed of 51 mph in a 30-mph zone. At Cedar Lake Road, the vehicle headed southbound, accelerating to a speed of 78 mph. Police activated warning lights, but the car continued to travel for another quarter-mile, when police activated sirens. At that point, the car swerved and then pulled onto the right shoulder. Police noticed an odor of alcohol in the vehicle. The driver told police his license was revoked for DUI.

The driver allegedly said to the arresting officer, "How about those Cubs?" The police report noted it was the night the Cubs "sadly lost" the final playoff game.

The driver failed four field sobriety tests, and refused to take the alphabet test. He also refused breath tests, reportedly telling police, "My lawyer would kill me if I took the test."

Martin was charged with speeding, DUI and driving with a revoked license. He was released on a $3,000 I-bond, pending an appearance in Waukegan courtroom C-402, on Nov. 21, at 9 a.m.

"The Cubs made me do it," he told police, supposedly explaining his drinking.

LINDENHURST

Car burglaries

Lindenhurst police are investigating a rash of car burglaries that occurred between Oct. 22-26 in several areas in the village. In most instances, reports indicate the vehicles were left unlocked in driveways. Items stolen were mostly loose change in amounts ranging from $1-20, CDs and CD cases, cell phones and faceplates from car radios. Total losses reported ranged up to $210. In some cases, police dusted for fingerprints. In other cases, the scene was declared "contaminated" by owners' fingerprints. Many of the reports were delayed by as much as a couple of days, as the items were not immediately missed.

The burglaries occurred in the following locations: Nightengale Circle, Briar Lane (two burglaries), Hazelwood (four burglaries), Elmwood, Cherrywood (two burglaries), Sunset Lane (two burglaries) and Burr Oak.

Technology 'gap' closes for 2 schools

Emmons School District 33 and Grass Lake School District 36 have both been awarded grants through the "Closing the Gap" program administered by the Illinois State Board of Education to enhance technology in the schools.

Improving technology is important to the quality of education in our schools today," said Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion).

According to the Senate Republican Press Office, the two districts applied for the grants through the state. To be eligible, each district had to have approved technology plans in place and local matching funds to support the grants.

Emmons was awarded $7,667 and Grass Lake $7,080 to support their technology efforts.

Geo-Karis said, "Computer skills are essential in almost every field today and having that technology available in the schools benefits students, teachers, employers and the community at large. I am pleased to see two local school districts taking advantage of the state's efforts to expand access to technology in our schools."

Antioch Pottery unveils new kiln at open house

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Although Jill Tortorella's Antioch Pottery Works always hosts an open house just in time for the holidays, this year's open house will be extra-special, as Tortorella will unveil her brand-new walk-in pottery kiln on Saturday, Nov. 15 at 10 a.m. The open house runs Nov. 15-16 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

"This is one of my favorite weekends of the year," said Tortorella. "Everyone has a lot of fun coming to the open house and having an opportunity to have some 'hands-on' time as well as watching demonstrations. This year will be extra-special as we unload the maiden firing of the new kiln."

Also special to Saturday is a raku firing. "This is really the most fun," said Tortorella. "Red-hot pieces are taken from the kiln and put with combustibles that burn and smolder. The reaction of the glaze with the smoldering material gives the unique look to the pottery. This year we're using sawdust and shredded paper to get the effect."

Tortorella will give demonstrations on using a potter's wheel and will allow those interested to try their hand at it as well.

Additionally, Tortorella will serve refreshments at the open house, including champagne for adults attending Saturday's kiln unveiling. Pots, plates, cups, bowls and a variety of other pottery art will be available for purchase for those interested in doing some early holiday shopping. Tortorella will also feature the ceramics of six other artists.

Offerings include Ikebana flower frogs (unique horizontal flower vases), as well as gift items in a range of sizes, colors and prices.

Antioch Pottery offers classes for adults and children. Tortorella brings in guest artists four times a year to conduct special workshops.

Tortorella earned a BFA from the School of the Art Institute of Chicago. She regularly exhibits her work in shows throughout the Midwest.

Her works are in the collections of Amoco Oil, Quaker Oats, Hackneys restaurants and The Lake Forest Bookstore, among others corporations.

The studio is located at 25942 Heart O Lakes Blvd. For more information, call 847-838-1040.

Tough road ahead for CLC

In over three decades of existence, the College of Lake County has grown by leaps and bounds. The school has gone from a few buildings surrounded by dirt roads to one of the best community colleges in Illinois. Its facilities are state-of-the-art and CLC is even adding a University Center, providing a link to colleges and universities from across the state.

Everything is looking up for the school. Everything, that is, except fan support for its athletic teams.

In 35 years, the school has produced 7 state championship teams and over 80 All-Americans. And almost no one has seen them.

"There's a lack of support for sports in all community colleges," long-time CLC Athletic Director and men's baseball coach Gene Hanson said.

There is a multitude of reasons for this, according to Hanson.

One is the fact that CLC is a commuter school, unlike other colleges and universities where the students are a "captive audience."

"When you're away at college, you're looking for something to do," Hanson said. "When you're going to a community college, you're living at home or you have a job or you still have ties to your old high school."

CLC's fan base has been described to me as "parents and girlfriends." But even that isn't always the case with some of CLC's teams.

"We have a lot of parents that don't even show up," Hanson said. "When you have 10 people on a basketball team, you would think there would be at least 20-30 people at the game, but sometimes we don't even get that."

The key to getting a good fan base, according to Hanson, is success.

"If you have a successful team, you will have a stronger following," Hanson said. "No one wants to go out and see a 6-30 team."

CLC women's soccer coach Dave Beck agrees that with success comes more fans.

"We have a great following," Beck said. "We usually draw about 75-100 people. We make a point of thanking the fans after every game."

But sometimes even success doesn't bring out the fans, as is the case with the women's volleyball team.

The Lady Lancers have won 36 matches in a row and will play this weekend at the school for the state title. But only 30-40 fans have shown up to every game, about the same total that came out for last year's 7-27 team.

"Scores of fans go out to see a bad D-1 team when they can see some great players just five minutes away," CLC women's volleyball coach Bob Taterka said. "But it doesn't stop us from having a great experience."

Even if every team were a state champion, Hanson still doesn't know if the fans would come out in droves.

"It's an uphill battle," Hanson said. "And I don't know if it can be won."

Stevenson outlasts Devils in season finale

By STEVE PETERSON
speterson@lakelandmedia.com

"Remember the Maine" may have been a good battle cry, and it could have been repeated on a soggy Friday night in Gurnee.

The winner of the Warren-Stevenson regular season finale did not only notch second place in the North Suburban Conference Lake Division race, but avoided facing state powerhouse Maine South in the Class 8A state playoffs. The 27-20 loss to Stevenson puts Warren in that position of having to face Maine South, where all contenders will have to be someday in the next five weeks.

Warren enters the playoffs at 5-4 overall, 3-2 NSC Lake, but confident the Blue Devils will be able to give a good showing in round one. SHS goes into the playoffs at 6-4, 4-1.

"This team is very resilient," said WTHS coach Dave Mohapp.

Joel David got the call at QB for injured Garren Zerfass (concussion), and did well. The defense took advantage of a game accurately listed as a lake division contest, as a 30-minute delay due to lightning may have upset the rhythm of both. "He did a nice job," Mohapp said of Zerfass.

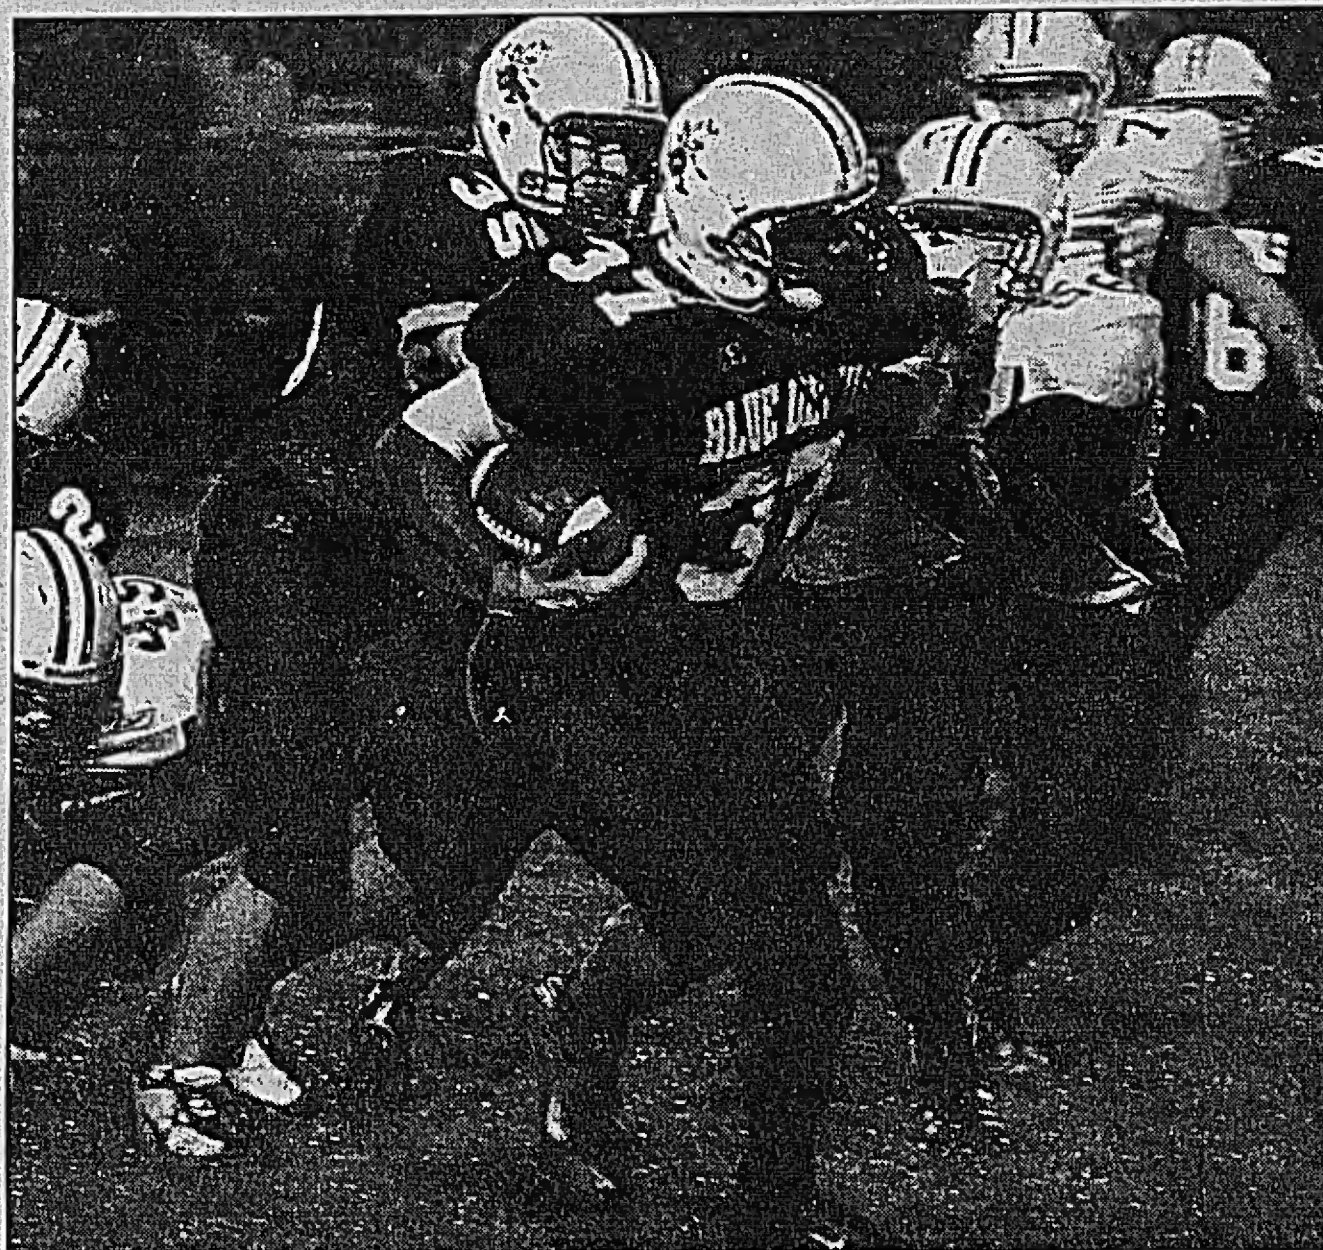

"But Stevenson just wore our defense down," he coach added. "They had eight guys in the box."

David, in his first QB start, was 10-for-17 passing for 162 yards.

A one-yard punt by Stevenson gave advantage Warren in terms of handling the early-game conditions. Warren scored as Matt Brocki (held to less than 40 yards) scored from 10 yards out and an extra point upped the lead to 7-0.

Warren's Mitchell Moore, a sophomore, continued to be a force on the ground game, as his runs set up Brocki's score.

Stevenson's Mike Becker capped off the first of four long Stevenson drives that would eventually decide the game. His 2-yard TD run was on a drive that highlighted a fourth-and-seven play, a 21-yard pass from QB Preston Earl to Trevor Heath.

Warren led 13-6 after David connected with Paul Thomas on a 50-yard TD pass in the third quarter on what looked like a short-yardage play at first. Thomas scooted to the sideline with 10:07 left in the third. The extra point try was missed, leaving it a 7-point lead.

Carl Johnson, Justin Dickinson (82 second-half yards) and Chris Harris runs for TDs proved to be too much, building a 27-13 lead.

Warren had one more long drive in it, as Moore scored from 2 yards out and the extra point cut the lead to 27-20. But the on-side kick was recovered by Stevenson, who was able to run out the clock.

State just the beginning for Grayslake freshman

By ROB BACKUS
rbackus@lakelandmedia.com

You can call Grayslake freshman Lynne Poggensee-Wei a lot of things.

Young. Inexperienced. But you also have to call her one of the best tennis players in Illinois, after she finished in the top-8 at the state tennis finals last weekend.

"It was exciting," Poggensee-Wei said.

Poggensee-Wei went 5-2 in the tournament, the best ever finish for a Grayslake player.

"It's quite an accomplishment for a freshman," Grayslake coach Sarah Lesinski-Roscoe said.

Ironically, Lesinski-Roscoe had the previous best finish in Grayslake history, making the round of 16 in 1995.

The accomplishment is all the more amazing when you consider that Poggensee-Wei is relatively new to competitive tennis.

"I've been playing tennis for a while," said Poggensee-Wei, whose parents, Betsy Poggensee and Paul Wei, are both tennis pros. "But I just started playing seriously four years ago."

For the season Poggensee-Wei finished with a record of 24-3, but she wasn't entirely satisfied with her season.

"I wanted to medal," Poggensee-Wei said.

According to her coach, Poggensee-Wei is her own toughest critic.

"She's very hard on herself," Lesinski-Roscoe said.

"You can't be good because someone else wants you to," Poggensee-Wei said. "You have to be good because you want you to."

As for next year, both Lesinski-Roscoe and Poggensee-Wei have high expectations.

"With (state champ) Elizabeth (Lumpkin) gone, maybe I can win state, but it's too far off to tell," Poggensee-Wei said. "But I definitely want to medal."

Lesinski-Roscoe added, "She fulfilled all of the goals this year so I guess I'll have to set higher goals for her next year."

Rams right where they want to be

By ROB BACKUS
rbackus@lakelandmedia.com

Grayslake coach Vito Andriola's team is going into the playoffs on a high note after winning its last two games of the regular season and securing a home game in the first round of the Class 6A playoffs.

For Andriola, the biggest thing going for his team heading into the post-season is its attitude.

"We wanted to get back to the Grayslake in the first five weeks of the season," Andriola said. "We haven't been as sharp lately."

The Rams appeared to be on their game in a 60-7 shellacking of Dundee-Crown in the last game of the season.

"Our attitude was the key," Andriola said. "We weren't overconfident."

Grayslake was led by a school record-tying 5 TDs from Brian Centella, who touched the ball just 9 times in the game.

"They gave us that side and we ran that way," Andriola said of Centella's performance. "I usually don't keep track of individuals, so Brian's 5 TDs just snuck up on me."

Adam Dones chipped in 106 yards on 13 carries and a touchdown and QB Drew Gallagher had a good game through the air, completing 5-of-9 passes for 78 yards and a 9-yard TD strike to Centella. He also ran one in from 19 yards out.

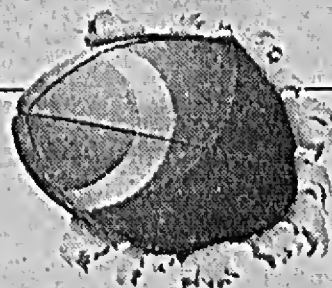

The defense also had a solid game, allowing just a lone TD. The 7 points allowed gave the defensive unit just 63 points total on the season.

"The defense did a pretty good job," Andriola said.

Now Grayslake will head into the playoffs for the first time since 1990 against a speedy Zion-Benton squad. But Andriola isn't worried.

"We have a lot of confidence right now," he said. "If we play like we did against Dundee-Crown, we'll be okay."

Warren Saturday Middleweight White came into the first round of the playoffs with a 7-1 record and the No. 1 seed.

Their opponent was Antioch Black, which had a 5-3 record and the No. 5 seed.

Antioch beat Warren opening day Aug. 30 8-0. History repeated itself as Antioch beat Warren again 8-0.

The defense, led by Kyle Grogan, held Antioch in check.

The Warren offense showed spots of brilliance but could not consistently get going on the rain soaked field.

This team came together from day one with a mission to win it all. After Warren lost on opening day they didn't quit. They rebounded and won 7 straight.

The team met and surpassed every challenge. But every team has a nemesis and this season it was Antioch Black.

With the playoff loss ending a very successful season on a sour note, work has begun on next season's drive for the championship.

The first round of the Tri-County Football League's Saturday Featherweight Playoffs proved to be one of the most exciting games of the season for Warren White.

Beginning the playoffs, on a cool Oct. 25 morning, with the confidence that a 7-1 season record brings, Warren White was ready to take on their opposition, Warren Silver.

As the game progressed both offensive teams struggled to translate yardage into points.

However, Warren White's defensive team, which never allowed a touchdown all season, remained unstoppable. Great defensive plays throughout the game kept Silver's offense at bay.

Highlights include two sacks by Brandon Hrdlicka; a tackling-causing fumble by Evan Trapp; outstanding tackling by Mitch Nelson, Derek Orfanos, Ryan Kennedy and Austen Wiecek; an impressive tackle by Justin Morabito late in the fourth quarter to hold the ball carrier back as well as a Ryan O'Reilly/Trapp tackle to stop the running back from a possible score.

As the fourth quarter in this 0-0 battle neared its end and Warren Silver's offense had possession of the ball, overtime seemed to be a sure thing.

With the memory of their only loss for the season occurring in triple overtime, Warren White's defense knew they had to return the ball to their offensive team if their was to be any hope of winning in regulation.

BLUE DEMONS ROUNDUP

With less than a minute remaining on the clock Warren Silver's offense, positioned near Warren White's 30-yard line, pitched the ball and threw it, only to have Warren White's Kennedy intercept it.

With twenty seconds remaining on the clock, Kennedy, as quarterback, dropped back and threw a 28-yard pass to Trapp who was tackled after a few short yards.

The offense hurried back to the line and the Kennedy/Trapp duo would immediately repeat the same play, this time with 12 seconds remaining. As the long bomb sailed through the air all spectators seemed to hold their breath.

Trapp caught the pass with ease and as the final time buzzer sounded, ran 20 yards for the game-winning touchdown.

The entire defense ran out to the end zone to celebrate with Trapp, Kennedy and the offensive team on this spectacular victory!

Now, armed with a 6-0 win, Warren White advances to the second round of the Tri-County playoffs. They will take on their next opponent, Lake Zurich Orange, at 10 a.m., Nov. 1 in Lake Zurich.

The line rate will range from a variable APR of Prime + 0% (currently 4.00% APR) to Prime + 4% (currently 8.00% APR). The rate for an FRP is determined by fixing the rate at a 3-year Treasury Notes Index plus a margin. The current FRP rate will range from a fixed APR of Index + 3.75% (currently 5.91% APR as of 10/01/03) to Index + 7.75% (currently 9.91% APR). A $50 fee will be assessed for each FRP. FRP and line rates cannot be less than 3% APR nor exceed 25% APR. No closing costs for lines under $250,000. An annual fee of $50 is charged at the beginning of each year beginning in the 13th month. An early termination fee of $350 will be charged if the account closes within 36 months. Property, title and/or flood insurance, if applicable, is required. Consult your tax advisor about the deductibility of interest. Carmel's magical unbeaten season continues with 41-14 thumping of Joliet Catholic

What appeared on paper to be a dream matchup, quickly turned into a nightmare for one team as No. 1 Carmel crushed No. 7 Joliet Catholic Academy 41-14.

"I had nightmares of them (Carmel) all week," JCA coach Dan Sharp said. "Thank God we're (in Class) 5A and we don't have to play them (in the playoffs). Carmel can win it in 6A, 7A...or 38A."

The Hilltoppers actually led early in this game, thanks to a 19-yard TD run from third-string QB Billy McKeon. That, coupled with two three-and-outs from Carmel's offense, had Carmel coach Andy Bitto a little concerned.

"I was worried because that's the first time we had two straight three-and-outs all year," Bitto said. "They had us figured out, but we were able to adjust."

Carmel's adjustments paid off with a 21-point second quarter as QB Mark Venegoni and Darren Davis each broke off long TD runs on two consecutive plays from scrimmage to put the Corsairs up 14-7.

"They're the best offense I've seen in 20 years," Sharp said.

The key sequence in the game came next as Joliet Catholic went for it twice on fourth down and came up short both times.

"I honestly thought we'd get the first down," Sharp said. "We were so concerned about their offense, it didn't matter whether we gave them a 40 or an 80-yard field."

The second JCA attempt on a 4th down conversion came with just over a minute left in the half, Carmel stopped them and had a short field to try to score.

"It surprised me when they went for it," Bitto said. "They didn't punt and it would have been 14-7 at the half."

Instead, the Corsairs enjoyed some fourth down success of their own as Venegoni hooked up with Jason Kwasigroch on a 14-yard fake field goal attempt with under 10 seconds left in the first half.

"We've been working on the fake all week," Venegoni said. "It seemed like they (JCA) had Kwasi covered, but he made a great catch."

For Carmel, it was just another successful two-minute drill.

"In the last eight years, we've been really successful in the two-minute offense," Bitto said.

Although Joliet Catholic would pull within 21-14 in the 3rd quarter, the game was never really in doubt as Jon Popovitch and Steve Hironimus would add TD runs and Venegoni would add a 26-yard TD strike to Chris Miller to pull away.

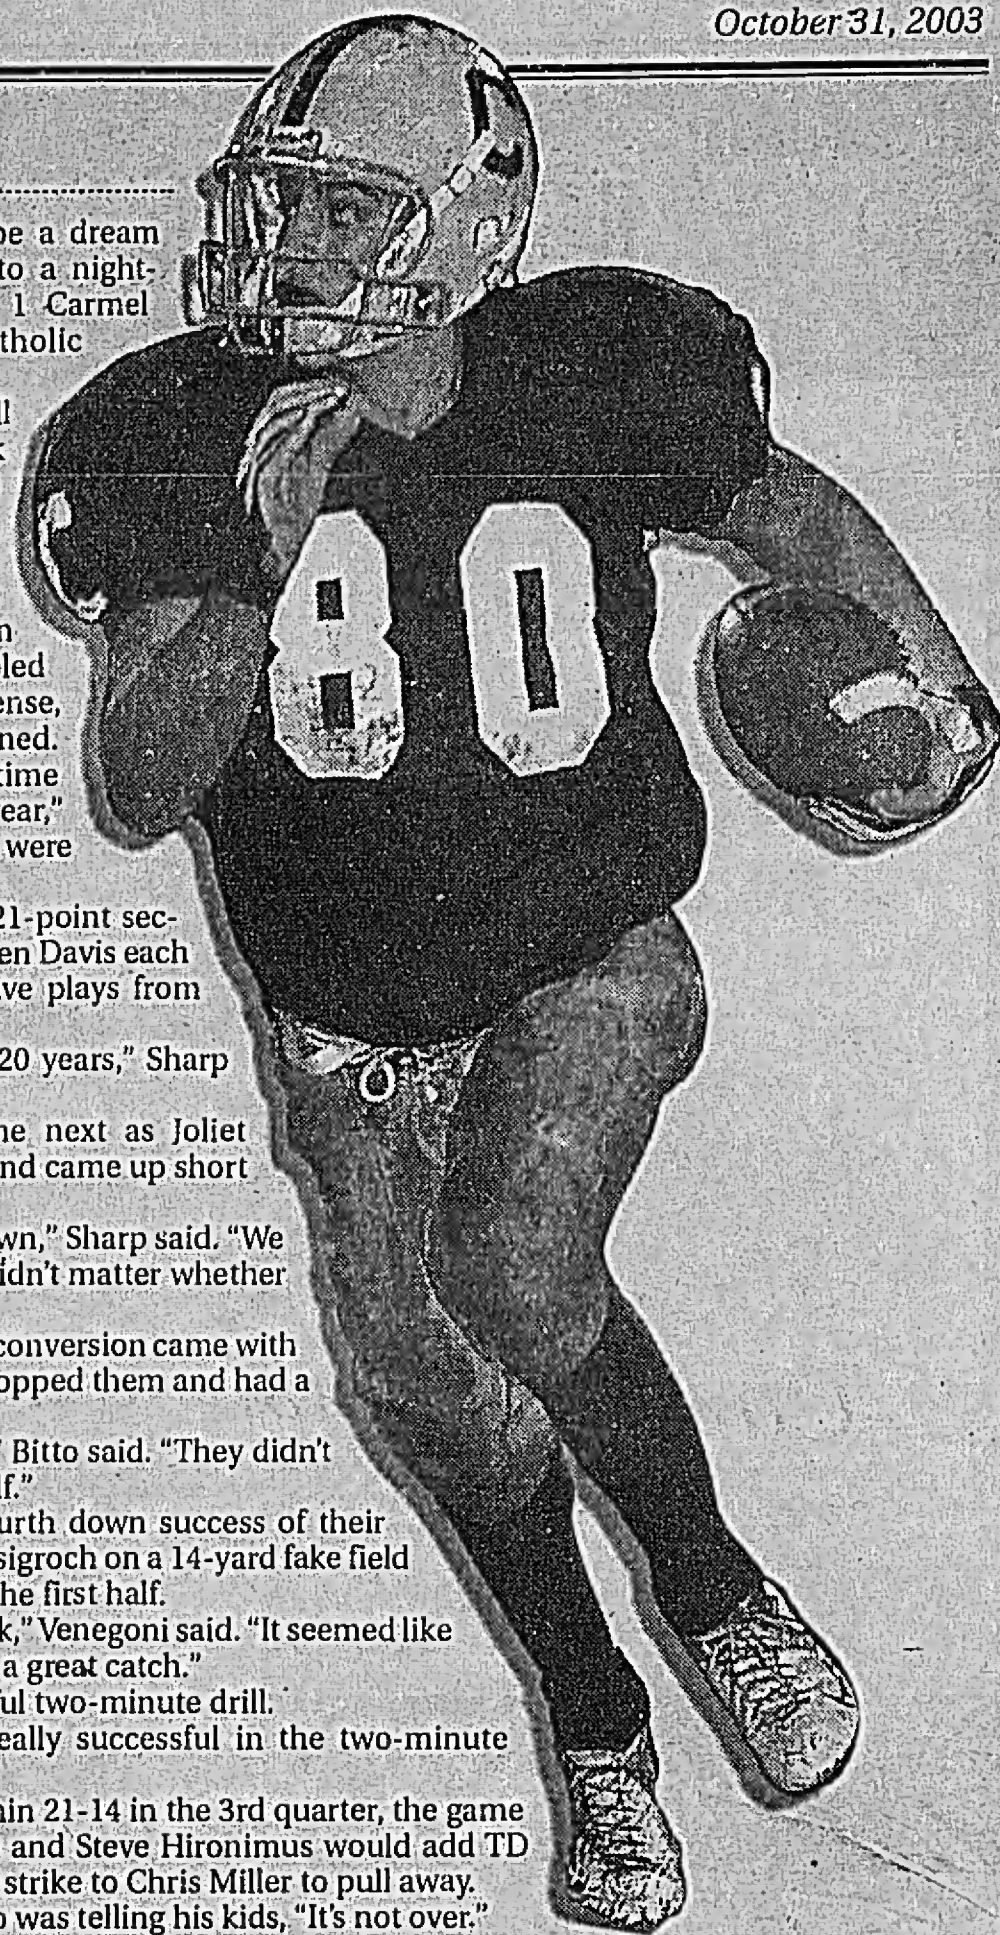

Even after the TD to Miller though, Bitto was telling his kids, "It's not over."

After McKeon went down with an injury in the fourth quarter, however, any chance JCA had to come back went by the boards.

The win gave Carmel its second straight unbeaten season and ESCC title, and just its second win over JCA in 23 games.

"It's been our season goal," Venegoni said. "Going 9-0, undefeated, beating Joliet Catholic—you can't top that."

The jubilant mood at the end of the game was a sharp contrast to the tearful beginning as Carmel retired the No. 10 jersey of Marshall Khayat, who died last summer in a motorcycle accident.

Death Rattles

Tales from the Lake County morgue

By BRENDA BALN-BEITSCHER
Staff Reporter

Photography by SANDY BRESSNER

It was Maria Garcia's birthday. She and her colleagues gathered around the table for lunch. There was a card. There was a cake. Chocolate. And there was conversation.

Maria's lunch companions included Lake County Coroner Jim Whipper, his predecessor Barbara ("I brought the cake") Richardson, several deputy coroners and members of the clerical staff.

Just a few yards away, three bodies slept a dreamless sleep. A woman. Two infants. They had been lying there, in the cold room, for a long time. A year. Two years.

Four years. The woman and one of the infants had no names.

As the cake was passed around, the stories came, at first slowly, then tumbling out faster, prefaced with laughter—sometimes mirthful, sometimes nervous—or prefaced with a hushed excitement: "You have got to hear this one..."

If dead men don't tell tales, those who live after them do...

A real-life coroner's work is neither as dramatic nor as glamorous as movies and television would suggest. Nevertheless, both large and small mysteries are solved in the bright cool glare of the lights over the autopsy table.

Some mysteries might be better left unsolved...

Grave matters

Although stories of forensic mysteries solved are interesting, it took a while before a genuinely ghoulish story emerged. It seemed out of context in the cheery room, but just right for Halloween.

"We got a call from the Lake County Sheriff's Office," said Chief Deputy Coroner Steve Newton. "The groundskeeper at a cemetery called to report he found a package buried in a shallow grave."

The "package" was small—about the size of an infant. It was soft, too. Soft, like human tissue.

"We thought it might be a baby, so we X-rayed it," Newton said. "We saw the object, whatever it was, had been penetrated by five iron nails."

Unwrapping the package produced a secondary scare. A pale ashy substance poured out.

"This was during the anthrax scares," Newton said.

The investigators continued to unwrap the package. They pulled out photographs. Some had people cut out of them. They were sprinkled with spices.

"Then we found tissue and hair," Newton said.

And then, the piece de resistance: a cow tongue.

"The tongue was slit in several places. Inside each slit was a piece of paper with a name on it. There were eight or nine names," he said.

The elaborate collection of items was a part of a ceremony—most likely a curse—following the rites of Santeria, a Caribbean religion that combines Christianity with African rituals.

"There was nothing illegal about it," said Deputy Coroner Knute Sandahl. "We expected that, when the moon was full, the ritual would continue."

Do restless spirits haunt the morgue?

Anna returns

Nearly everyone who works at the morgue believes they have heard sounds of a former resident they call "Anna."

Anna lived in a nursing home, and died in 1998 with no family to claim her body. Her corpse was kept at the county morgue for two years, waiting for a resting place. Finally, the county had the remains cremated.

"Soon after she left, we started hearing strange noises in the 'cooler' (where the bodies are kept)," Newton said.

"It was only once in a while, but it was a knocking sound, and it was not a noise made by the refrigeration, either," he said.

Several of those at the lunch table agreed that Anna was prone to slamming the front door of the morgue. Richardson recalled stepping into the cooler one morning, to retrieve a body for a family, only to be locked in, without lights, when the door closed behind her—by itself.

Newton also described how the 1998 Jeep Expedition that carried Anna from the morgue to the crematorium began to have problems shortly after Anna took her final ride.

"I was driving down the road in the Jeep, and the windows on both the driver's and passenger's side rolled down by themselves," he said.

"She even followed me home," he said, insisting she turned on his electric teapot without his interference.

Others who work at the coroner's office have noticed odd occurrences. Long ago, when he was still a deputy coroner, Wipper, sitting alone in the morgue one night, saw hoses wrapped around a table begin swinging from side to side for no apparent reason.

If some are persistent in the pursuit of life, others are equally persistent in the pursuit of death.

Try, try again...

"I remember a guy who hanged himself three times," Sandahl said. "He kept trying, and he kept falling down. When we found him, his leg had been injured from falling on it."

Although the man was found hanging from a rope, suspended five feet off the ground, a torn bathrobe belt and a ripped extension cord provided evidence of his failed attempts.

Thereby hangs the tale...

At first glance, it appeared the woman lying dead on the floor had simply died of natural causes. But again, as Newton related, the first impression is not always the correct one.

"We saw a broomstick propped against the wall, and the woman was wearing a dog leash," Newton said. "We did a re-enactment of the scene, and figured out that she hanged herself by putting the broomstick across the doorframe, and used the dog leash to hang herself from the stick.

"When the leash broke, her body fell to the floor and the stick fell and ended up propped against the wall."

As we sat talking of past cases, it became clear that what you see is not always what you get.

Dead men (and women) do tell tales...

Wipper related how police and fire fighters who arrived at the scene of an apartment fire believed the woman they found in the ashes was a victim of the blaze.

"We ran tests," Wipper said. "There was no carbon dioxide in her blood." Most fire victims actually die from smoke inhalation, with a lot of carbon dioxide present.

"She was dead before the fire," Wipper said. "When we looked further, we discovered she had been stabbed to death with a knife."

Post-mortem archaeology

Wipper's story reminded Richardson of a house in Barrington that burned to the ground.

"The house collapsed clear to the basement," she said. "When the debris was removed, a skull was found. It had just one tooth left in it."

From the one tooth, the skull was identified. A bullet hole in the skull told the tale. This fire, too, was covering up a homicide.

...and sometimes, it's the cops who get it wrong...

Life after death?

First responders don't always get it right.

"Once, the police found a woman in a bathtub, and pronounced her dead," Richardson said. "When the deputy coroner arrived, the woman sat bolt upright, asking what happened."

Conversation turned to other matters. The lunch table was cleaned up, though never to be as clean as the gleaming steel tables in the next room.

Nearby, they slept: a woman, two infants. Two of them nameless, and all of them telling their stories in silence, in the flesh.

Crackpot cooking: family recipes for disaster

Funny how cookbooks sell like hotcakes in a world of fast food, microwaves and single size servings. Somewhere in our collective unconscious there must be a primal desire to commune over a standing rib roast.

But let's face it. Nowadays finding the time to pass around mashed potatoes at a family meal is as likely as getting a hungry dog to share his bowl of kibbles.

Still, there's reason to take heart. Don't feel guilty slamming another bowl of chili through the can opener. Just leaf through the following pages of "Crackpot Cooking" and you'll be grateful you're not downing these "family recipes for disaster"...

*****

This book is dedicated to Great Grandmother Minnie, the taste setter in our family. She was always eager to act as "sommelier", thanks to the handy bottle opener strung around her neck.

Aunt Charlotte's Crater Cake

A simple, tasty cake to make for a child's birthday...that is, if you're still on speaking terms.

? lb. butter	1? cups cake flour
1 cup sugar	? cup cornstarch
4 eggs	? tsp. salt
? cup water	4 tsp. baking powder

Preheat oven to 350 degrees while an argument with teenage daughter brews. Butter and flour two cake pans as if washing child's mouth out with soap. Cream butter and sugar in threatening manner. Beat in water, eggs, and a few shells, since you have to walk on them anyway with the "Drama Queen." Throw in everything else just to get the crying scene over with.

Spread batter in pans and bake 25 minutes while pounding foot on floor like you're the boss. Cool in pans 5 minutes, then turn out on racks. Fill crater in cake with Mocha Rum Butter Frosting...then pretend you're a pirate on shore leave.

THE MAIN CURSE

Cousin Milo's Gulag Goulash

Half the appreciation of a good meal lies in the anticipation. Make sure family members are so ravenous they're cyeing the plaster walls, then begin preparation.

3 tbsp. butter	1 clove garlic, minced
2 onions, sliced	2 lb. beef, cut into chunks
2 tbsp. paprika	1 can tomatoes
? tsp. salt

Cook onion with butter in casserole dish. Smile reassuringly as loved ones clutch their stomachs in hunger. Stir in seasonings. Lock kitchen door before handling raw meat. Brown beef in casserole dish with other contents, then cover and simmer for 3 hours. Relax knowing your family will down this meal with gusto, even if it tastes like sewer sludge.

AAF gears up for annual Gala Nov. 1

As always, the Crystal Lake Country Club is the Nov. 1 site for the eleventh annual benefit dinner dance and auctions of the Assisi Animal Foundation. This year the theme is "A Foreign Affair" and will again feature exciting auction items from distant shores, as well as a mini gallery, wonderful entertainment and dining options, unusual pet items and a holiday boutique. The special focus will be on jewelry that ranges from "fun" pieces to high end treasures.

Along with the silent items, a brief live auction by Steve Reid will include such finds as a city getaway package, a fine oriental rug, a dazzling and very special piece of jewelry and, once again, luxury 10-day safari for two persons to E. Africa!

Festivities start at 5:30 with cocktails and viewing of auction items. Dinner follows, then, auction closings and dancing the night away. Tickets for the black-tie-optional evening are $50 per person. Reserve tickets by calling the Assisi Animal Foundation at 815-455-9411. Last year's event was a sell out, so gala committee members recommend early reservation to be sure of tickets.

Proceeds will benefit the Assisi Animal Foundation's non-profit, non-kill animal shelter, the first built in McHenry County. The AAF, an award winning organization that introduced animal-assisted therapy visits to area retirement homes, continues to serve the community with a regular program visiting many area facilities and serving hundreds of seniors.

For reservations, information about adoptions, volunteering or our programs call 815-455-9411.

Top notch sci-fi/horror film

By Pam & George Singleton

It's been almost 25 years since "Alien" could be seen properly, on the big screen. Digitally remastered with a few added scenes and some judicious editing snippets of 10-15 seconds here and there, the film may be even better today than when it was first released.

A crew of eight is returning to earth on the space ship Nostromo, their mining cargo bays bulging with ore. When they wake up from their self-induced hibernation sleep, they learn that the ship has automatically changed course to investigate a transmission that could be emanating from an intelligent life form. They determine the source of the signal is a planet they can land on. An exploratory crew is soon on the ground, discovering a fossilized life form like nothing they have seen or heard of before.

When Kane (John Hurt) investigates a nest of large egg-like pods, he is soon attacked by a new organism. Protocol says he should be quarantined and although it's Ripley's (Sigourney Weaver) call, science officer Ash (Ian Holm) overrides her order and lets him back inside the space module.

When they return to the mother ship Kane is put in isolation, with a small squid-looking animal covering his face. It's providing him air and seems to have penetrated his chest cavity. Anytime the medical staff tries to cut the animal away the tentacles around Kane's neck draw tight like a boa constrictor. Kane's condition does improve and things seem to be going well until "the moment" arrives.

Now with an alien on board, which grows quickly into a killing machine, it's up to Ripley and her crew to execute the alien or isolate it in a chamber so it can be jettisoned from the space ship.

The combination of the digitally remastered special edition, with a brand new six-track digital stereo mix, makes the film "Alien" more than worthy of its cult status. There are a select number of films that take you to another world when you see them on the big screen, and this is one of them.

A conversation with Sanaa Lathan and Director Carl Franklin of "Out of Time"

By George O. Singleton

George to Carl: This film is not marketed as film noir, but it's certainly got that feeling. To what extent are you looking for critical as well as box office acclaim, say $100 million?

Carl: I tend to not worry about that because you make so many concessions if you try to please every segment of the potential audience. If you do that you are operating in quicksand.

George to Sanaa: How did you get into the frame of mind to change from a romantic role early in the film to a person with a less than gentle third dimension? (Readers, I'm being purposely evasive here to not spoil this part of the film for you).

Sanaa: If you get into your imagination, your body automatically does emotional recall. I just try to immerse myself as completely as I can in the circumstances of the character.

George to Carl: How did you migrate from Richmond, California, and from acting to directing in only 14 years?

Carl: Acting kind of came from the blind side. I was a history major in college. I took a literature class because I thought it was an interesting elective and I was selected for a play. That introduced me to acting. The head of the department (at Berkeley) got me into acting in New York.

George to Sanaa: You had a lot of support from your parents. You went to Berkeley and then onto Yale. You've been working with some top flight male actors (Denzel, Omar, Taye). What will it take for you to get to the level of Angela Bassett or Diane Lane?

Sanaa: I have no idea. Every road is different. Everyone has a rule as to how to get to where you are going. It could be this movie; it could be seven movies from now.

George to Carl: Tell me how you made the balcony scene look so realistic?

Carl: We tried to keep the action fairly believable. With a good lab and solid "green screen" techniques, it worked out well.

George to Carl and Sanaa: What phrase do you think best describes the film?

Carl: Tropical erotic thriller.

We agree with that description. It's not as evil as "Body Heat" but it's just as much fun, if not more.

It leaves an indelible impression

Powerful performances drive this complex story as it deals with the semantics of language, the illusion of race, and our passions in life as we pass from age to age. "The Human Stain," adapted from the Philip Roth novel, is directed by Robert Benton.

What strikes you first are the voices, seductive and drawing you in. Anthony Hopkins, sure, he can read my favorite recipe aloud any day. But Nicole Kidman brings a weary huskiness of tone to her role as Faunia Farelly that is surprising. And Gary Sinise's narration, as Nathan Zuckerman, is as open and straightforward as his conversations with Coleman Silk (Anthony Hopkins).

Coleman Silk is a man with a deliberate plan for his life, borne of circumstance and desire. After living and teaching in Europe, he is now the first Jewish professor of the classics, and chair of his department at New England's small (and now prestigious, thanks to him) Athena College. The ironic use of a phrase during a lecture results in serious charges being leveled against Coleman. In the aftermath he finds himself enmeshed in two life-changing relationships. First is a lusty sexual affair with Faunia, a much younger, janitorial worker at the college, and the development of a revealing and sensitive friendship with Zuckerman, a writer experiencing a creative block, who is hiding out in a lakeside cabin.

The sadly beautiful Faunia is definitely among the walking wounded. Her psychotic ex-husband (Ed Harris) has a restraining order against approaching her or her home, and she has lost two young children in a tragedy.

Director Benton (Oscars for "Kramer vs. Kramer" and "Places in the Heart") unfolds the story through carefully orchestrated recollections, so well developed and integral, we hesitate to call them flashbacks. They disclose what led young Coleman, portrayed with equal amounts of zeal and naivete by Wentworth Miller, to choose the path of denial of self. The issue is not one that raises many eyebrows anymore but it was critical at the time Coleman graduated from high school.

When we abandon the essence of who we truly are, we run the great risk of never finding ourselves in the new country we trod.

AT LAKE FOREST HOSPITAL

we look at every mammogram twice.

We know a mammogram isn't your favorite experience, so it's important to you that the evaluation be as accurate as possible. Perhaps you'd even like a second opinion. So would we. That's why the radiologists at Lake Forest Hospital subject every mammogram to a Second Look.™

Second Look is a sophisticated computer-aided mammography screening tool that enhances diagnostic reliability. Second Look is just part of the thorough, thoughtful way we do mammograms at our Breast Care Center in Lake Bluff and at our Medical Buildings in Gurnee and Vernon Hills. Call (847) 535-6133 for information about our Breast Care Center nearest you, or call (847) 535-6171 for a physician referral.

SWALCO offers free programs to Lake County schools, agency teaches the '4Rs' of solid waste

The Solid Waste Agency of Lake County, IL (SWALCO) is welcoming the new school year by offering area schools some free resources to help teach the "4Rs" of solid waste (reduce, reuse, recycle and buy recycled content products).

The agency has created a new website (www.trash4kids.org) aimed at K-8 students who want to learn about reducing trash, reusing products and recycling in Lake County. The website includes activity sheets teachers can download, as well as Internet-based activities (such as an interactive game and WebQuests) and special event announcements.

In celebration of America Recycles Day (Nov. 15, 2003), SWALCO will cosponsor a teacher workshop and a poetry contest with an emphasis on the theme, "Rededicate Yourself to Recycling." The contest is open to all K-8 students, and special recycled content prizes will be awarded.

Finally, SWALCO is once again offering its Earth Flag Program for to Lake County schools for the 2003/2004 school year. This free program, offered to any public or private school teaching students in Lake County, helps teachers meet Illinois Learning Standards. Each participating school is matched with an enthusiastic and dedicated Earth Flag Team Member who works with the school over the year to develop activities that fulfill the program criteria: establish a school recycling program and host a schoolwide waste reduction event.

For more information about these programs, or to receive registration materials, call 847-336-9340 x 4.

Party to new heights with mountains of food and fun

Get ready for an altitude adjustment with a special "Everest" themed "Party to the MAX" at the Humphrey IMAX Dome Theater at the Milwaukee Public Museum, Thursday, Nov. 6.

Visitors can experience life-or-death drama on the world's tallest mountain during special previews of the IMAX film "Everest" and try out their rock climbing skills on a two-story-tall indoor mountain! A mountain-sized feast includes all-you-can-eat Himalayan chili, specialty bread from Great Harvest Bread Co. and build-your-own "mile-high" Culver's sundaes; and beverages from Coca-Cola and Miller Brewing Co.

Other activities include "Everest" trivia and a visit to the Museum's first and second floor exhibits, including "Reptiles: The Beautiful and the Deadly," a display of more than 20 LIVE reptiles.

Party to the MAX is 5:30-9:30 p.m. "Everest" showtimes are 6:30 p.m. and 7:45 p.m.

Cost is $30 for adults and $20 for children. Reservations are recommended. For more information or to make reservations, call 414-278-2728.

Proceeds from the event will benefit the museum's exhibits and educational programs.

"Everest" chronicles a 1996 mission to the mountain's zenith, including the dramatic rescue of climbers trapped in Everest's "death zone" by a surprise blizzard. Discover the courage and stamina it takes to climb 29,000 feet in the sky—just a few thousand feet below cruising altitude for 747s—and learn how geological upheaval formed the mountain and how it continues to evolve.

The Milwaukee Public Museum is located 800 W. Wells Street, Milwaukee, Wis.

UW-Parkside ALIVE! series presents La Bottine Souriante

The University of Wisconsin-Parkside Arts: ALIVE! series presents, straight from Quebec, La Bottine Souriante in concert Friday, Nov. 7. Pronounced "la boo-TEEN sue-ray-ONT," this lively nine-piece band fills the Communication Arts Theatre with music beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Drawing on a diverse background of musical influences—French, English, Irish, and Scottish—La Bottine's music is a unique combination of instruments and styles. And while the band's influences are varied, its delivery is consistent: high energy, musically intense.

A wide range of talents will be displayed. Roots musicians Michel Bordeleau (drums, mandolin, fiddle, guitar), lead vocalist Yves Lambert (button accordion and harmonica), and André Brunet (fiddle, guitar), join jazzmen Régent Archambault (acoustic and electric bass), Denis Fréchette (saxophone), Robert Ellis (bass trombone), André Verreault (trombone) and Jocelyn Lapointe (trumpet). The result is great music no matter what the language!

Tony Montague of the Vancouver Courier called La Bottine Souriante "One of the most innovative and uplifting bands playing contemporary roots music anywhere." Sue Wilson of Glasgow's The Scotsman praised La Bottine for its "exhilarating, precision-honed rhythms" and Kenny Mathieson of England's Folk Roots promised the group "Will stick in the memory."

Tickets for La Bottine Souriante are $18 and can be reserved by calling (262) 595-2404. For more information, call 262-595-2277.

UW-parkside presents Lute Virtoso Barbarito Torres Nov. 13

The University of Wisconsin-Parkside gives area music fans the chance to hear a true virtuoso when Barbarito Torres performs on campus Thursday, Nov. 13. The concert begins at 7:30 p.m. in the Union Cinema.

Barbarito Torres is one of Cuba's greatest laud players (the laud is described as a Cuban country cousin to the Spanish lute). He is often referred to as the Jimi Hendrix of guajiro music for his dazzling speed and the way he attacks the instrument. Guajiro is the Cuban equivalent of "blues" music.

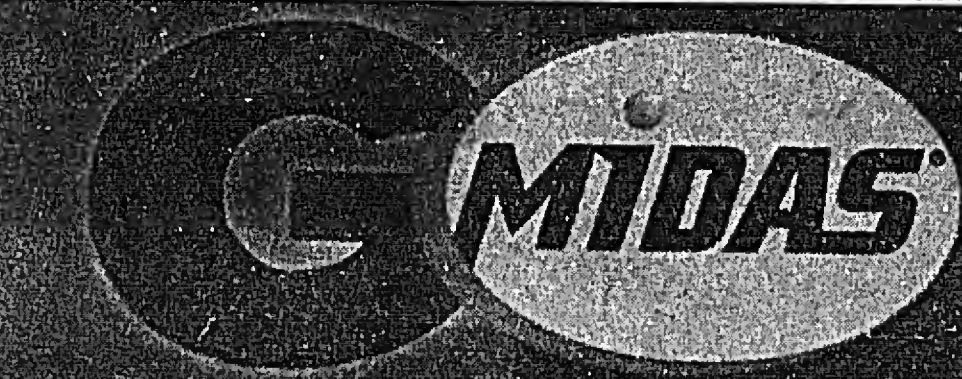

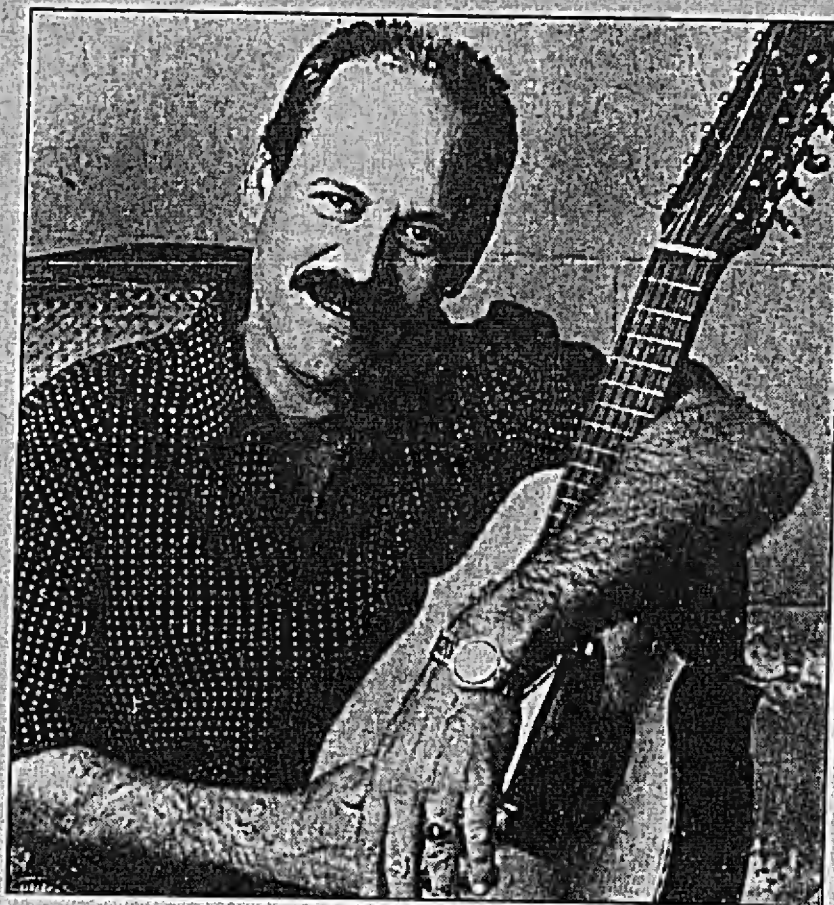

Torres made a name for himself as a member of the Afro-Cuban All Stars. He also helped the Buena Vista Social Club win a 1998 Grammy. A year later, Torres, debut album, Havana Café, set the tone and pace for his career as a featured performer.

In reviewing Havana Café for the Barnes & Noble website, Mark Schwartz said Torres seemed incapable of keeping a lid on his ferocious musicianship. Schwartz said Torres, songs "reach a boil with a few bars, the merciless syncopation and skin-tight swing easily take these homey songs into jazzlike orbit." He advised, "You'll need a cold shower after this one."

"It's country music, but it rocks," said the New York Times.

Don't miss this opportunity to see a great musician when Barbarito Torres plays UW-Parkside. Tickets are $10 for general admission, $5 for students and can be reserved by calling 262-595-2345. This concert is sponsored by the Latinos Unidos student organization.

IEPA gives violation notice

Wauconda—The village's wastewater treatment plant received a violation notice from the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency this week for the release of sewage that seeped into the Bangs Lake Drain last month.

The village has 45 days to respond. The case may be turned over to the Illinois Attorney General's Office, which may proceed with formal enforcement.

Special census to increase revenue

Grayslake—Village officials are working to conduct a special census to increase revenues and maintain the current property taxes. Grayslake's population of 18,506 people may have increased by 2,300 this year.

The additional revenue expected from the census is an estimated $1.65 million over the next seven years.

District wants smaller referendum

Gurnee—Elementary School District 56 will turn to taxpayers once again next March to request a smaller tax increase than that of previous, unsuccessful attempts.

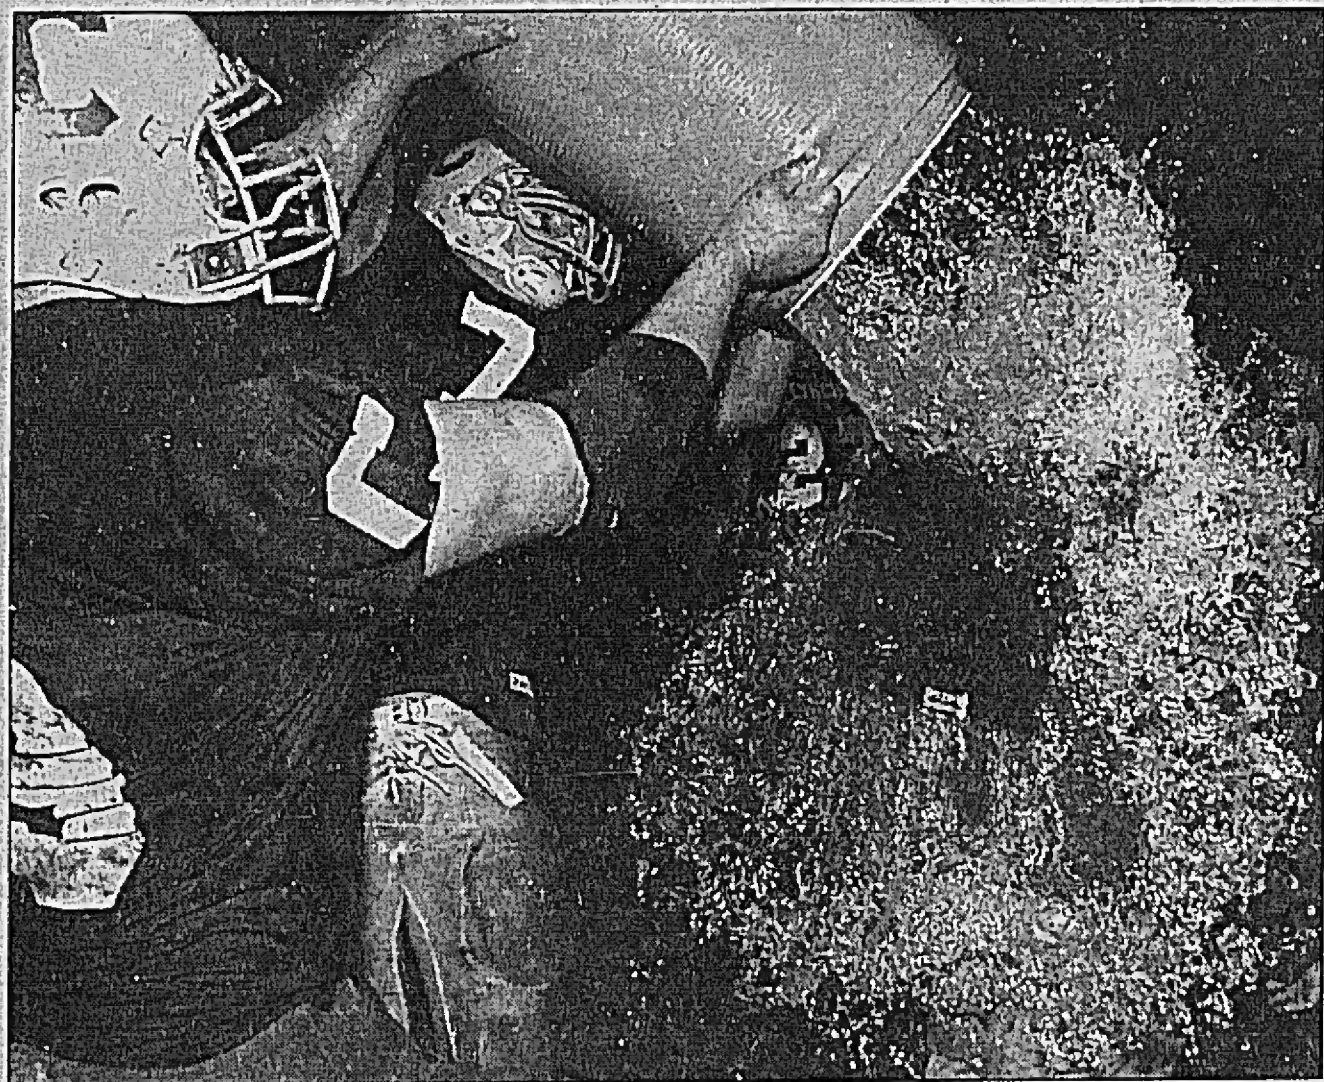

The school board voted at its most recent meeting to ask voters for a 25-cent increase in the education fund tax rate to hire up to 13 staffers to replace those who were let go after the last school year.

Changes to come in curriculum

Mundelein—The Mundelein High School board approved to curriculum and graduation requirements to improve test scores and increase graduation rates.

More classes will be added to the curriculum. Students will be expected to take additional English, math and science courses.

Panel: More tax money has good effect on schools

By CAREL SCHMIDLKOFER
carels@lakelandmedia.com

The state of Illinois needs to accept more financial responsibility for funding the state's school districts or face a decrease in educational standards.

That was the message elected officials from state, county, local and school districts and community members heard at the Grayslake School District 46 School Talk Forum Oct. 26 at Hainesville's Prairieview School.

Ralph M. Martire, executive director for the Center for Tax and Budget Accountability, a non-partisan think tank and watch-dog group, was the keynote speaker at the event.

Martire provided evidence that the state's over-reliance on property taxes to fund education is doomed to fail and that fiscal reform is required to fund quality education in the state.

"The idea is to have the right balance of revenue resources," Martire said. "You need a mix that makes sense. The problem in Illinois is we've mixed ourselves a Molotov Cocktail."

Funding education at the state level will alleviate inequities between school districts, where some have wealthier residents and some do not.

This disparity is apparent in Lake County, where low-income and high income communities exist.

"This gives the state the Hispanics in Lake County are alive and well as evidenced by a visit from Sec. of State Jesse White.

The event was a well attended award ceremony celebrating National Hispanic Heritage Month held at the Waukegan public Library.

Honored as an exceptional Hispanic community leader was Rosa Reyes-Prosen, president of the College of Lake County board of trustees.

Awarded public service awards were Waukegan Township Trustee Mario Pena, and presented a civic award was Secundina Montano.

Lakeland staffers win more awards

Lakeland's reporters, photographers and designers won six awards in the 2003 Northern Illinois Newspaper Association's annual editorial contest.

A first place was awarded to Lakeland's "LakeLife" section in the best feature section category.

Reporter Brenda Balin-Beitscher earned three second place awards. She earned the honors in the original column, personality feature and spot news categories.

Photographer Sandy Bressner also won third place in the feature photo category.

For best special section, Lakeland earned second place for "For Love Of Country."

Osmond pushing new tax amnesty program

State Rep. JoAnn D. Osmond (R-Antioch) urged constituents who have fallen behind in their Illinois State taxes to participate in a new Illinois Tax Amnesty Program. The program, launched by the Department of Revenue on Oct. 1, will enable taxpayers to have all interest and penalties waived if they pay their tax debts, file missing returns and correct under-reported liabilities.

The Department of Revenue has notified more than 180,000 people who owe the state money, in addition to those who are currently being audited or who could be selected for audit in the near future, noted Osmond.

"The Tax Amnesty Program will offer a wonderful savings opportunity for those individuals who have outstanding balances on their state taxes," said Osmond. "I highly encourage those residents who owe the state money to enroll in this new program and pay off their debts in full, which will enable them to avoid having to pay all accrued interest and penalties."

According to Osmond, the program will run until Nov. 17. Afterwards, those who still haven't paid off their state taxes will see existing penalties and interest doubled—interest which will accrue at 200 percent of the applicable rate.

Osmond

Geo-Karis lauded for efforts on behalf of 'Save A Life'

By STEVE PETERSON
speterson@lakelandmedia.com

Illinois State Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion) was sitting next to then-senator Pate Phillip, listening to one of the first successes of the Save A Life Foundation as told by the organization's president, Carol Spizzirri.

"It was in 1994, and the State Capitol was packed because they were considering the governor's gun control bill. Our bill made it mandatory for cardio-pulmonary resuscitation training for police and paramedics," Spizzirri said.

The bill was passed, and Geo-Karis and Phillip showed the thumbs-up sign.

"I was a mom on a mission and did not know anything about politics. I am still learning," Spizzirri added.

Geo-Karis has been a constant backer of Save A Life since its beginnings. It started shortly after Christina Spizzirri died following a hit-and-run crash in Park City on Labor Day weekend, 1992. Geo-Karis received a "lifetime achievement award" from Save A Life Foundation officials at her Zion office.

"I am very honored to receive it. I have always believed in it," Geo-Karis said.

SALF has developed a curriculum for all grade levels and it has spread to major cities including Chicago, Milwaukee and Philadelphia. Legislation similar to Illinois' has been approved in Pennsylvania and is under consideration in Arizona.

Annual events for Spizzirri, of Grayslake's group, includes a Save A Life Week in May, a "Bridge the Gap" safety summit held in September and an upcoming "Race for Life" charity car show in Palatine on Oct. 18. The car cruise fun is sponsored by US Army Racing, Alexian Brothers, Miller Brewing, Route 66 Raceway, Red Bull and the village of Palatine. There will be exclusive autographed memorabilia from NASCAR, IRL, NHRA and more.

SALF is connected with the Citizens Corps of FEMA, Federal Emergency Management Association.

Geo-Karis

Spizzirri said that she would like to see the curriculum expanded to drivers education programs.

Since the early 1990s, the SALF is active in altering the way bystanders view and approach an emergency scene. Utilizing local EMS providers as instructors, SALF has trained more than 700,000 Illinois school children at no cost and adults in skills that will not only improve emergency response efforts but also increase the chances of survival for all citizens.

Geo-Karis serves on the foundation's leadership group. Geo-Karis's district stretches from Zion to Fox Lake. Another long-time backer is Charles Hartke, a former state representative, who is now the Illinois Director of Agriculture. A legislator also backing Save A Life Foundation is Walter Duditch, a senator who is on the group's board of directors.

For more information on SALF, call 847-928-9683 or visit the web site, www.salf.org.

Axelrod reappointed to health board

The Lake County Board has reappointed Harry B. "Hal" Axelrod of Highland Park to the Lake County Board of Health. His new term will run through June 30, 2006. The board of Health oversees the programs and services of the Lake County Health Department/Community Health Center.

Axelrod, who joined the board of health in 2000, has been in the restaurant business for more than 25 years. He served as director of education for the Illinois Restaurant Association from 1998-

2000 and is presently the assistant manager of the Sunset Ridge Country Club in Northfield. He previously managed restaurants for Morton Management and Levy Restaurants and he owned his own restaurant in Highland Park for seven years.

EDITORIAL

Doors opening for political spree

While California was hogging the political spotlight with its bizarre recall election, groundwork was being laid in Illinois for elections next year that portend strange happenings.

On the state level, there will be a free-for-all battle for nominations for an open U.S. Senate seat. At last count, there was a combined field of 18 aspirants in the two major parties. Toss in candidates from lesser parties and there will be the equivalent of a gridiron match-up from which voters can choose.

Locally, a steeple chase is shaping up for seven seats up for election to the county board. For the Republicans, signals are being sent from incumbents, hopefuls, newcomers, wannabes, has-beens, long shots and others. On the Democratic side, the voting public will be treated to competition in the primary where party slating and arm-twisting used to be the rule.

In the early going for the U.S. Senate, the field includes numerous millionaires, a retired Air Force general, a downstate coal miner, special interest wonks and the customary array of career politicians. For the record, there are just about as many Democrat millionaires looking for a place in Washington as GOP money bags. So much for the party of the rich.

Political pundits and academics see as little as 30 percent of the primary vote in Illinois nailing down a senate nomination. Never before has there been such a large and colorful field seeking the represent Illinois in the U.S. Senate.

California aside, Illinois has its own colorful history for off-beat elections and wide-open conditions. The 1964 election featured the famous orange, bed sheet ballot with approximately 400 candidates running at-large for state representative. When the stakes are high, candidates come out in droves. Congressman Mark Kirk (R-10th) came out of a field of 13 two elections ago.

Large fields typify changes in the political landscape. There is more money to spend for campaigns. Prosperity seems to invite unknown challengers. More intense media coverage encourages fringe candidates. There is less discipline in party politics. Technology has opened the door to greater citizen participation. The celebrity factor is real. Education has expanded the field of public office aspirants. The desire to hold elective office seems more attractive than ever. With the possible exception of celebrity, these factors are equally true for grassroots politics.

All of which adds up to an exciting and intriguing March 16 primary next year and an equally stimulating general election in November.

Country 'flavor' still commonplace

Lake County residents put a high priority on what's happening to the land. They've opened up their wallets regularly to support public support of open space initiatives.

That's why it's interesting to know that, despite unstinting growth for many years, the second largest land use in the county is public and private open space, based on the year 2000 records. This use amounts to 52,000 acres, more than 17 percent of the land area. The Lake County Regional Planning Commission defines public and private open space to include forest preserves, parks, trails, conservation areas, set-aside areas in commercial developments and golf courses.

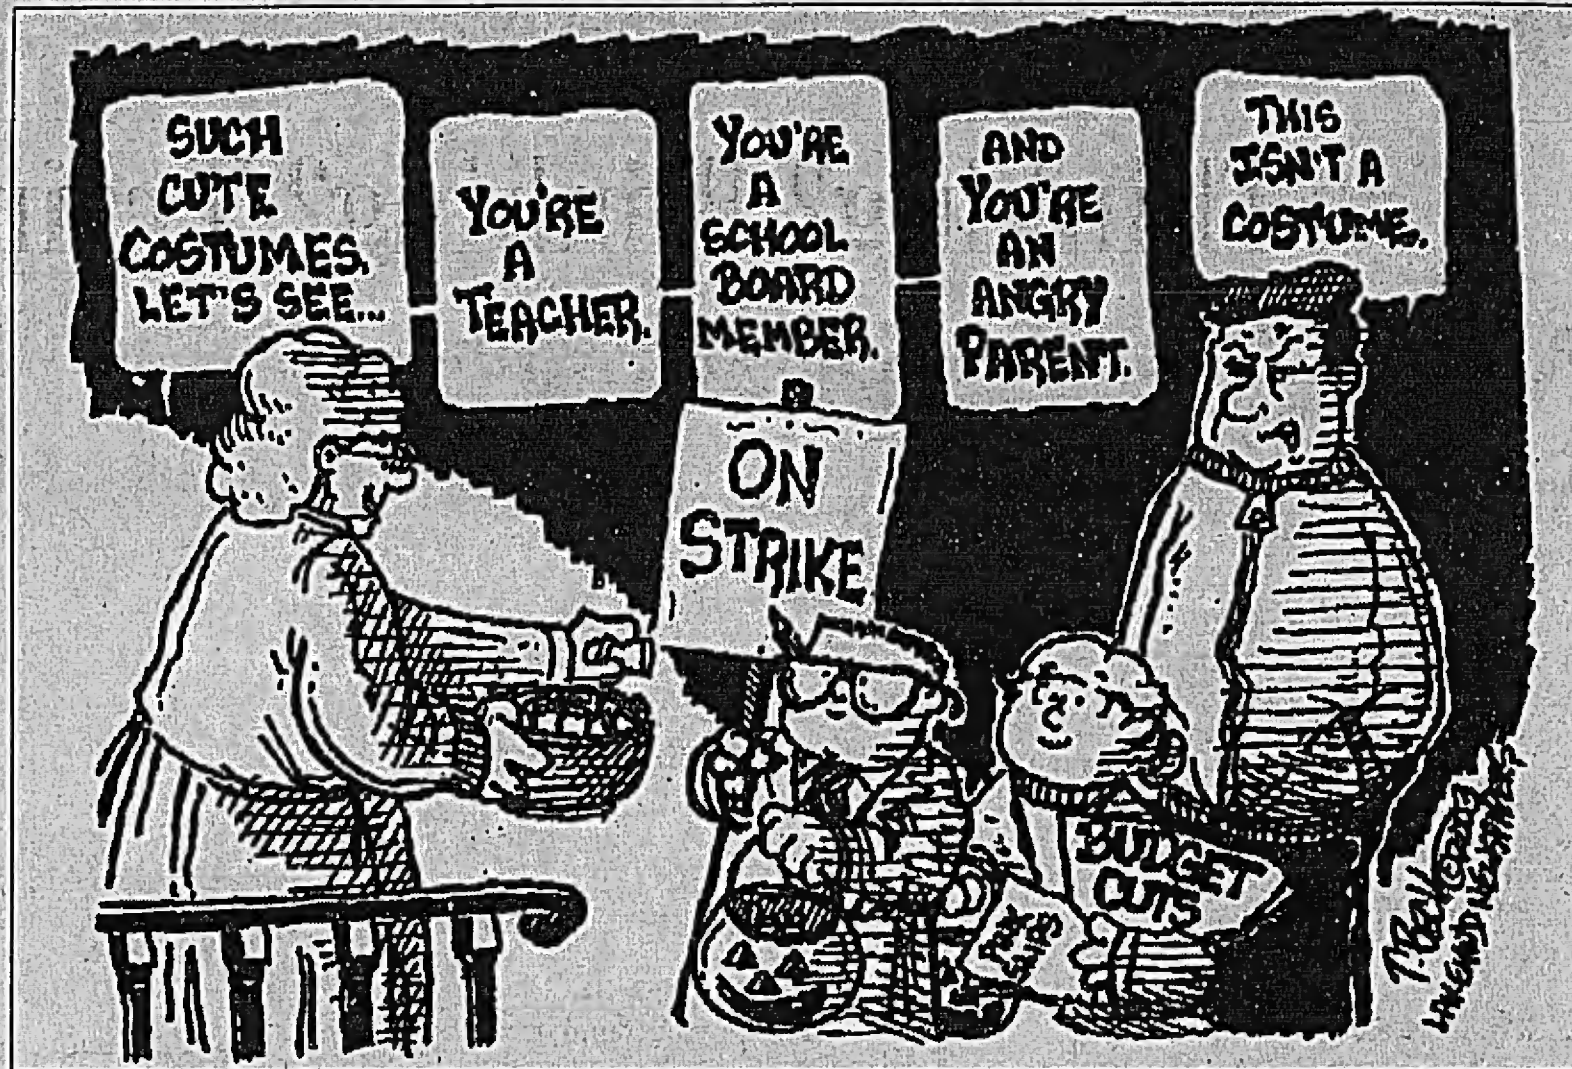

Third largest land use is agriculture with nearly 44,000 acres or slightly more than 14 percent.

No surprise is the fact that land devoted to living quarters is far and away the top use with 74,000 acres—25 percent. We're still considered "country," particularly by big city friends and neighbors, because less than one percent of the land area—1,800 acres—is given to multi-family residential.

Less than five percent of the land is devoted to commercial use: industry (5,519 acres), office (2,250 acres) and retail/commercial (7,129 acres).

Interestingly, adding to the commercial category generates the most controversy when land use policy is considered or changes come up for public consideration. The commercial land use certainly has increased in the last few years.

Somewhat discordant is public acceptance of subtracting from existing open space by adding more rooftops as opposed to increasing commercial use. Space for rooftops is OK. Put another way, we still remain "country" in the eyes of the public even with more rooftops. As long as residential building is mostly for single families.

VIEWPOINT

Going global for transit riders

Sleek bullet-nosed locomotives are being introduced to replace Metra's aging fleet of familiar snubby faced puller-pusher units, some of which are more than 35-years-old.

Designed and built in Japan, and finished at a shop in Wisconsin, about a dozen of the new passenger locomotives now are in service, showing up at various points in the suburban system that requires several hundred locomotives to power commuter trains.

Sleepy-eyed commuters may not have paid attention to the new equipment pushing their train in the a.m. (or pulling it in the p.m.), but train buffs are thrilled over the distinctive locomotives that feature a broad nose and expansive glass windshield for the cab. It's like looking at a 747 at cockpit level.

So far Metra executives are pleased with the new equipment purchased with Illinois First funds. The new "bullet" locomotives will be mixed into the fleet. "More are to be delivered," according to Tom Miller, a Metra spokesman.

Japanese bullet trains routinely exceed 100 mph. Metra commuters travel around 55 mph when there is enough distance to "get rolling" between stops. But the new bullet locomotives sure look great.

BILL SCHROEDER

LaGrange in the western suburbs used to be America's railroad locomotive center when TractoMotive turned out diesel locomotives by the hundreds for both U.S. and world-wide use.

Going overseas for commuter train equipment is just another example of the global economy. Sort of the order of things these days, but that order is topsy turvy.

We export our tax dollars and our commuting fares in exchange for spiffy new train engines. The old way of building the engines here, using what we need and exporting the extras seemed better, especially for American paychecks.

State winners

Hats off to two Lakeland area sixth graders who were among six state-wide winners in the 2003 Illinois America Recycles Day poster contest. Paloma Trygar, Our Lady of Humility School, Beach Park, and Robyn Scatena, Parkland School, McHenry, put their artistic ability to good use to further the 4R's—reduce, reuse, recycle and re-buy. Nov. 15 will be celebrated as America Recycles Day.

One man's family

Congratulations to Bob and Elise. Another grandchild is on the way. The sixth to join our family. Wonderful news. That antique highchair tucked away in the basement is going to get dusted off and readied for use.

State Rep. Osmond—dedicated public servant

When I recently mentioned in this column that all of Lake County was well represented in the legislature by first termer Kathy Ryg, I had every intention to also praise another woman first term legislator for her work in Springfield, but I thought that it should take two separate columns to do so. State Representative JoAnn D. Osmond (R-Antioch) represents the northern tier of Lake County and she has done an outstanding job, particularly when you consider how she came to fill the position.

JoAnn's husband, Tim, had just won re-election as state representative from the 61st District and shortly afterward suffered a heart attack that took his life. He was on to a long career in public office and I spoke to many legislators who liked his warm demeanor and his ability to work with everyone in the legislature, no matter their politics.

When it came to fill the vacancy created by Tim's untimely passing, others came forward to seek the position, but no one was more qualified and suited to fill the spot than JoAnn Osmond. The District's Representative Committee made the logical choice to name her to the post.

Besides her familiarity with state government through Tim's legisla-

SEEING IT THROUGH
John S. Matijevich

tive experiences, JoAnn has a long and illustrious background of her own in politics and government. The DeReu family was long associated with local Republican politics, and JoAnn became actively involved in party politics. She rose to become chairwoman of the Lake County Republican Central Committee and served in many other capacities for the organization and party candidates.

JoAnn served for 16 years as legislative administrative aide to State Representative Robert Churchill and for two years for State Representative Sidney Mathias. In those roles, she honed her skills in constituent services and developed a keen knowledge of important legislative issues.

As an officer of the first Fire Protection District of Antioch, JoAnn has been actively involved in fire protection legislation. She has become involved in the first "Fire Caucus," a non-partisan group formed in Springfield to discuss and promote issues in the legislature that are important to the fire services. She said firefighters are the first responders to many of our emergencies and that's why she became actively involved to help the group. JoAnn was a sponsor of the Defibrillator Bill, which seeks to have defibrillators in schools, senior centers and other facilities. She said that it is so important that persons who suffer from heart seizures be given a "second chance" to survive, and she had a personal stake in the bill, given her family experience.

JoAnn also carried through a law that her husband Tim was going to pursue as a recommendation from the National Conference of Insurance Legislation on which he served. It was consumer legislation that prohibited credit scoring from being the sole determinant in underwriting and rating of personal insurance.

There has been so much more that JoAnn Osmond has accomplished in the short time that she has served. Like her husband, she has earned the respect and admiration of her peers. That's from "both sides of the aisle."

There are rumblings that JoAnn may face primary election opposition next spring from a small fractured element of the political party. On merit, she deserves a resounding return to serve the public.

PARTY LINES

PARTY LINES, THE LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS' COLUMN OF POLITICAL OPINION, IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS.

Thinking? Blinking? Train horns silenced

Mundelein officials exchanged high fives after officials of Canadian National Railway Co. backed off on threats to start blowing horns again at crossings because of the village's ticketing policy for stalled freights.

Did the railroad executives blink? Mundelein officials aren't sure, but Village Manager Ken Marabella and his assistant, Mike Flynn, feel the controversy is behind them. Flynn had described the rhubarb to reporters as a "crisis."

While Mundelein stood firm, the village also got support from the Illinois Commerce Commission for extension of use of automatic horns at crossings which make it unnecessary for trains to sound horns.

Clark backer

Crain's Chicago Business has identified Libertyville businessman Glen Tullman as one of the Democratic bigwigs providing financial support for the presidential bid of retired Gen. Wesley Clark. Tullman is chairman and CEO of a health care consulting firm, according to the business magazine.

Borling to speak

Members of the Republican Assembly of Lake County have booked retired Air Force Gen. John L. Borling as their featured speaker at their monthly meeting at 7 p.m., Thursday, Nov. 17, at Mundelein Ramada Inn. Borling is a candidate for the U.S. Senate nomination. Borling's Lake County supporters will showcase their candidate at a gathering Monday, Nov. 10, at Mickey Finn's Libertyville. All interested persons are invited.

Buffet for Powers

First term village trustee Michelle Daye of Round Lake Beach intends to challenge County Board Rep. Bob Powers (R-Round Lake Beach) in the District 16 in the March 16 Republican primary. Daye's experience includes serving as a campaign aide for State Rep. Bob Churchill (R-Hainesville). Powers is following up a re-election announcement with a Sunday dinner fundraiser Nov. 2, at Richard's Chicken and Ribs on Rollins Road, Round Lake Heights. The incumbent's invitation is for a $10 "all-you-can-eat" buffet. Dani Powers is taking reservations at 847-548-0902.

Consumer friend

State Sen. Pam Althoff (R-McHenry) was recognized as a friend of consumers by opposing SBC backed legislation that would have resulted in higher monthly phone bills. Althoff was recognized by the Illinois Coalition for Competitive Telecommunications.

Marriage counselor

Associate Judge John T. Phillips continues to garner praise for his down-to-earth advice on how to achieve a successful and happy marriage. Phillips always concludes a marriage ceremony he conducts with "Phillips Philosophy," for the newlyweds.

Rush to succeed

A decision by Circuit Judge John R. Goshgarian to retire is expected to kick off a rush of candidates. Goshgarian is one of 11 full circuit judges in the 19th Judicial Circuit covering Lake and McHenry counties. Circuit judges are selected by popular election.

Come back time?

Frequent attendance at County Board meetings by Bob Depke has given rise to speculation that Depke is getting ready for a come back attempt. The ex-chairman and former Warren Township supervisor resides in District 6 now represented by Rep. Don Bauer (R-Round Lake Park).

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Wrongful shredding

The most shocking argument made in support of the destruction of public records compares carefully compiled village documents to "trash." I respectfully disagree. The records of the Village of Gurnee are valuable to the citizens. It is the way that government can prove to inquiring citizens that business transactions of the village do not improperly enrich any contractor with the village.

In one of the most famous financial scandals of our time, the Enron Corporation, the first act of wrongdoers was to shred company documents. Since documents cannot lie, Enron executives took the extraordinary step of eliminating them. The citizens of Gurnee have the right to review public records, and that right keeps the entire governmental system in Gurnee honest.

I support the village board's action to ensure that unsupervised destruction never happens again.

Susan Collins
Gurnee

Unnecessary shredding

Supporters of document destruction downplaying the importance of our public records are not persuasive. Bank records, invoices, employment records, and other financial files are important to the citizens and are not trash. Any class of public document of questionable value should be brought before our elected officials to have them make the final determination as to whether they should be destroyed. And those decisions should be made in public, so that the public can watch our public officials to ensure that they are not destroying records of value.

Arguing that village records take up too much space is not persuasive, considering that, with oversight of the village board, public records that have no value can still be eliminated. Further, no emergency has been documented that required the village staff to go around our elected officials. The village staff had the time to do this the right way.

Arguing that the village records were destroyed following the minimal requirements of state law is not persuasive either. It is clear that the state does not review requests adequately if they do not question an application signed by a village secretary. If a secretary can obtain authorization to destroy public documents, then the system is broken.

We need new laws to protect our public records. What has happened in Gurnee could be taking place elsewhere in Illinois. No public record of any local government should be destroyed without a stricter permit process and approval of the elected officials of that taxing body.

Home for library

Once again District 128 is considering the fate of the Brainerd Building. The 1998 Brainerd Task Force recommendation replacing the outdated 1920s gymnasium with a state of the art addition to the Butler Lake gym to include modern locker rooms and storage areas. The task force also suggested purchasing the nursery property across from LHS and developing the land into athletic fields to replace the standard field at the Brainerd Campus. If this could be done, the report suggested, the high school district should consider the sale of the Brainerd property to the library district.

The sale of the property would offset the $2.5 million it will cost District 128 to upgrade the old gym for continued use or the $3.5 million estimated to build a new gym at Butler Lake. Building a new gym offers many benefits and is the solution that the LHS athletic department has stated they would prefer.

The Cook Library District has been struggling with trying to develop an expansion plan for many years. The main problem is finding a site near the center of the district that is large enough for a single facility to serve the entire district. The Brainerd property is just such a site. Fifty-four percent of registered voters who were surveyed in 1998 supported locating the Cook Library at the Brainerd site. In 2000, the Cook Library Board offered to purchase the site from District 128. That offer was rejected. Instead of recycling the property into a vital new use, the high school board has continued to let the building deteriorate to the point where they are now suggesting demolition of a portion of the building and minimal upgrades to keep the gym functional for some period of time.

We cannot let this resource continue to be neglected, underutilized or possibly demolished. It is time for the residents to speak up. If you believe that the Brainerd site should be the new home of Cook Memorial Library, now is the time to let your high school and library boards know. If the community fails to speak loudly, it is likely that the Brainerd Building will become a memory and the library will continue to struggle to find a suitable location to build for many years to come.

Bad combination

Small Illinois farmers and breeders may soon be forced out of the horse racing industry, if our legislature approves plans to allow slots at racetracks, thus making them "mini-casinos." Increased purses from additional track revenues will attract the large, politically powerful stables, from a variety of states, to further control an already struggling industry.

The proposed bill coming before the Illinois House that would allow racetracks to offer slot machines or video lottery terminals needs to be voted down. In most cases the livelihood of Illinois' horse industry has been passed down from generation to generation—father to son, father-to-daughter. This legislation puts at risk the heritage and great tradition of horse racing in Illinois and the ability of the fellow citizens of our state to make a decent, honest living.

It is in their best interests and in the well-being of all of the big and small people associated with Illinois' horse trade that our legislators stop this bill before it goes any further. Horse racing in its purest sense is a sport that demonstrates the best that a horse and its jockey/driver can be, regardless of the influence and financial backing behind them. Horse racing has in generations past entertained and for future generations to come will continue to entertain so many fans throughout our state and around the world, both young and old every racing season. Let's keep Illinois a state that respects these people and their horses and honors this great sport.

Dog park rules

Lake County Forest Preserve dog parks are wonderful places to take your dog to have fun and frolic with other dogs. In order to visit any of the numerous parks you must either pay a per-use fee, which can be paid at the park, or you can buy a yearly permit. While the parks are a great way to exercise and socialize your dog they are not meant for all dogs and there are precautions to take when visiting them.

The dog parks are not a good option for you if:

Your dog is aggressive or extremely shy with either people or dogs.
Your dog is fragile or old.

Your dog is a puppy and has not yet received all his/her shots.

Your female dog is in heat.

You don't like it when you or your dog gets muddy and dirty.

Your dog is sick or you are suspicious he/she has an illness.

When visiting a dog park, take these precautionary steps to be sure you and your dog are safe:

- Never leave your dog unattended.
- Only unleash your dog if you are sure he/she will not run away.
- Watch other dogs very carefully. If you notice another dog being aggressive towards people or dogs leave that area and go elsewhere in the park.
- Never assume that other dog owners will be as responsible as you are.
- Avoid bringing treats or food to the park unless you want to be constantly bothered by other dogs wanting your snacks.
- Make sure your dog is up to date on all his/her shots.
- Be sure your dog has all his/her proper ID tags on his/her collar.
- Clean up after your dog. Bags are provided at the parks at no charge.
- Bring water and a bowl for your dog in case he/she gets thirsty. Never assume that the dog park is completely fenced in, even if it is stated that it is.
- DO NOT use a retractable leash at the park (for that matter anywhere). They are very dangerous and can injure you, or your dog, another dog or person.

To receive more information about dog parks in your area and to receive an application visit: www.lcfd.org.

ability to bring schools that are spending $4,000 per kid up to $5,800 (considered the minimum dollar amount for quality education in the state)," Martire said.

Martire said that new state revenue is needed in the amount of $4 billion annually to fund education reform.

These funds can be raised by increasing individual and corporate tax rates, taxing pension incomes and expanding the state sales tax base to include services.

With the service sector the fastest growing segment of the Illinois economy, it doesn't make sense to not impose taxes here, Martire said.

Restructuring the regressive tax system that exists in the state is vital, Martire said.

Currently lower income families are taxed at a higher rate than affluent ones.

"This is unfair and counterproductive," Martire said.

Tax expenditures should be reviewed by the state as well, such as breaks given to private businesses as an incentive to increase jobs.

This seems to be an outdated policy, Martire said, since most businesses are attracted to a business location based on the quality of education rather than the tax break given by the state.

Senator Geo Karis (R-Zion) objected to the possibility of the state losing jobs if expenditures changed or were cut.

"Boeing brought in a lot of business which means jobs," Karis said. "I'm concerned about having jobs—good jobs."

Taxing pensions was another taboo topic for the senator.

"I think that's terrible. People have earned their pensions. You don't tax pensions, absolutely not," she said.

Martire pointed out that such taxes would not be across the board, but that clearly some pensions should be considered.

Karis supported a referendum for increasing income taxes and said school board officials need to be careful about spending.

District 46 Superintendent Kurt Anderson said school districts carefully monitor spending, but tax caps, mandated state programs and shrinking state funds limit efforts to provide quality education.

Asking residents to continually come up with funds to cover deficits hurts homeowners, said Grayslake resident, Tracy Neilson.

"I have to say I know of several people here who have had to move out of Grayslake because of their real estate taxes," she said. "I mean, they just can't afford it and that's kind of sad."

Martire said that legislators aren't likely to ask for income tax increases and citizens need to let their elected officials know they are committed to quality education for all children and are willing to pay for it.

demonstrated your dedication to the Illinois Hispanic Community and I applaud your efforts."

Waukegan 9th Ward Alderman Rafael Rivera read off each award winners many accomplishments and as each individual received an award the audience gave them a standing ovation.

After the meeting was over, Rivera summed up the event. "I define leadership as bringing people together for the benefit of the community and this is what these people do."

County accepts drafts of regional framework plan

At its monthly meeting, the Lake County Board accepted draft housing, fire protection and solid waste chapters and sub-chapters of the Regional Framework Plan.

The comprehensive plan governs overall development in the county. The purpose is to provide guidance for the location, type and intensity of development to occur throughout the county and for the preservation and enhancement of natural resources.

The public can read the newly approved draft chapters and sub-chapters, as well as previously approved draft chapters, on the Lake County web site at www.co.lake.il.us/planning and follow the Quick Links to the Framework Plan and survey.

Recently approved draft chapters are available for review, along with surveys housing, fire protection and solid waste draft chapters and sub-chapters.

An online survey will be utilized to revise the draft chapters and sub-chapters before the plan document is prepared for final review by the Regional Planning Commission and adopted by the county board.

2003 LAKELAND MEDIA

PREP FOOTBALL PLAYOFF PREVIEW

It's go time!

Lakeland area sends a 6-pack of teams into post-season

After a grueling 9-game regular season, it's time for the rubber to hit the road. Teams will now begin the 5-game "second season" to reach the state finals in Champaign.

Every season, the Lakeland area sends a contingent of teams into the IHSA football playoffs. Somehow this year seems more special than seasons passed, and so do the teams.

That's because the Lakeland area has two contenders going into their respective classes as the No. 1 seed.

Let's start with everyone's No. 1, the Carmel Corsairs.

With the win over Joliet Catholic in the season finale, Carmel not only clinched the No. 1 seed in Class 6A and its second straight unbeaten regular season, but it heads into the post-season with utmost confidence.

The Corsairs can beat you any way you want. With their defense, their special teams, through the air or on the ground.

In fact, anything less than a state title will be viewed as a disappointment for this unbelievably talented team.

The other No. 1 seed is the occasionally overlooked 9-0 squad from Libertyville.

The Cats have an unstoppable running attack, led by backs Santino Panico, John Haas and Kevin Fontana. Throw in a steadily improving defense and Libertyville has a definite shot to take the title in Class 7A.

Believe it or not, there are other intriguing stories outside of Libertyville and Mundelein.

Grayslake heads into the playoffs for the first time since 1990 on the strength of a punishing defense, which has allowed just 63 points all season.

If the Rams' offense can produce two touchdowns a game, this team has a chance to go far in the playoffs.

Antioch has also made a big turnaround in its program, going from 1-8 in 2002 to 5-4 and its first playoff spot in three years.

The Sequoias are getting healthy at the right time and could give Libertyville a good game in its opening round matchup.

Johnsburg's story is similar to Antioch's. The Skyhawks were 3-6 just two years ago, but have since made the playoffs for two straight years.

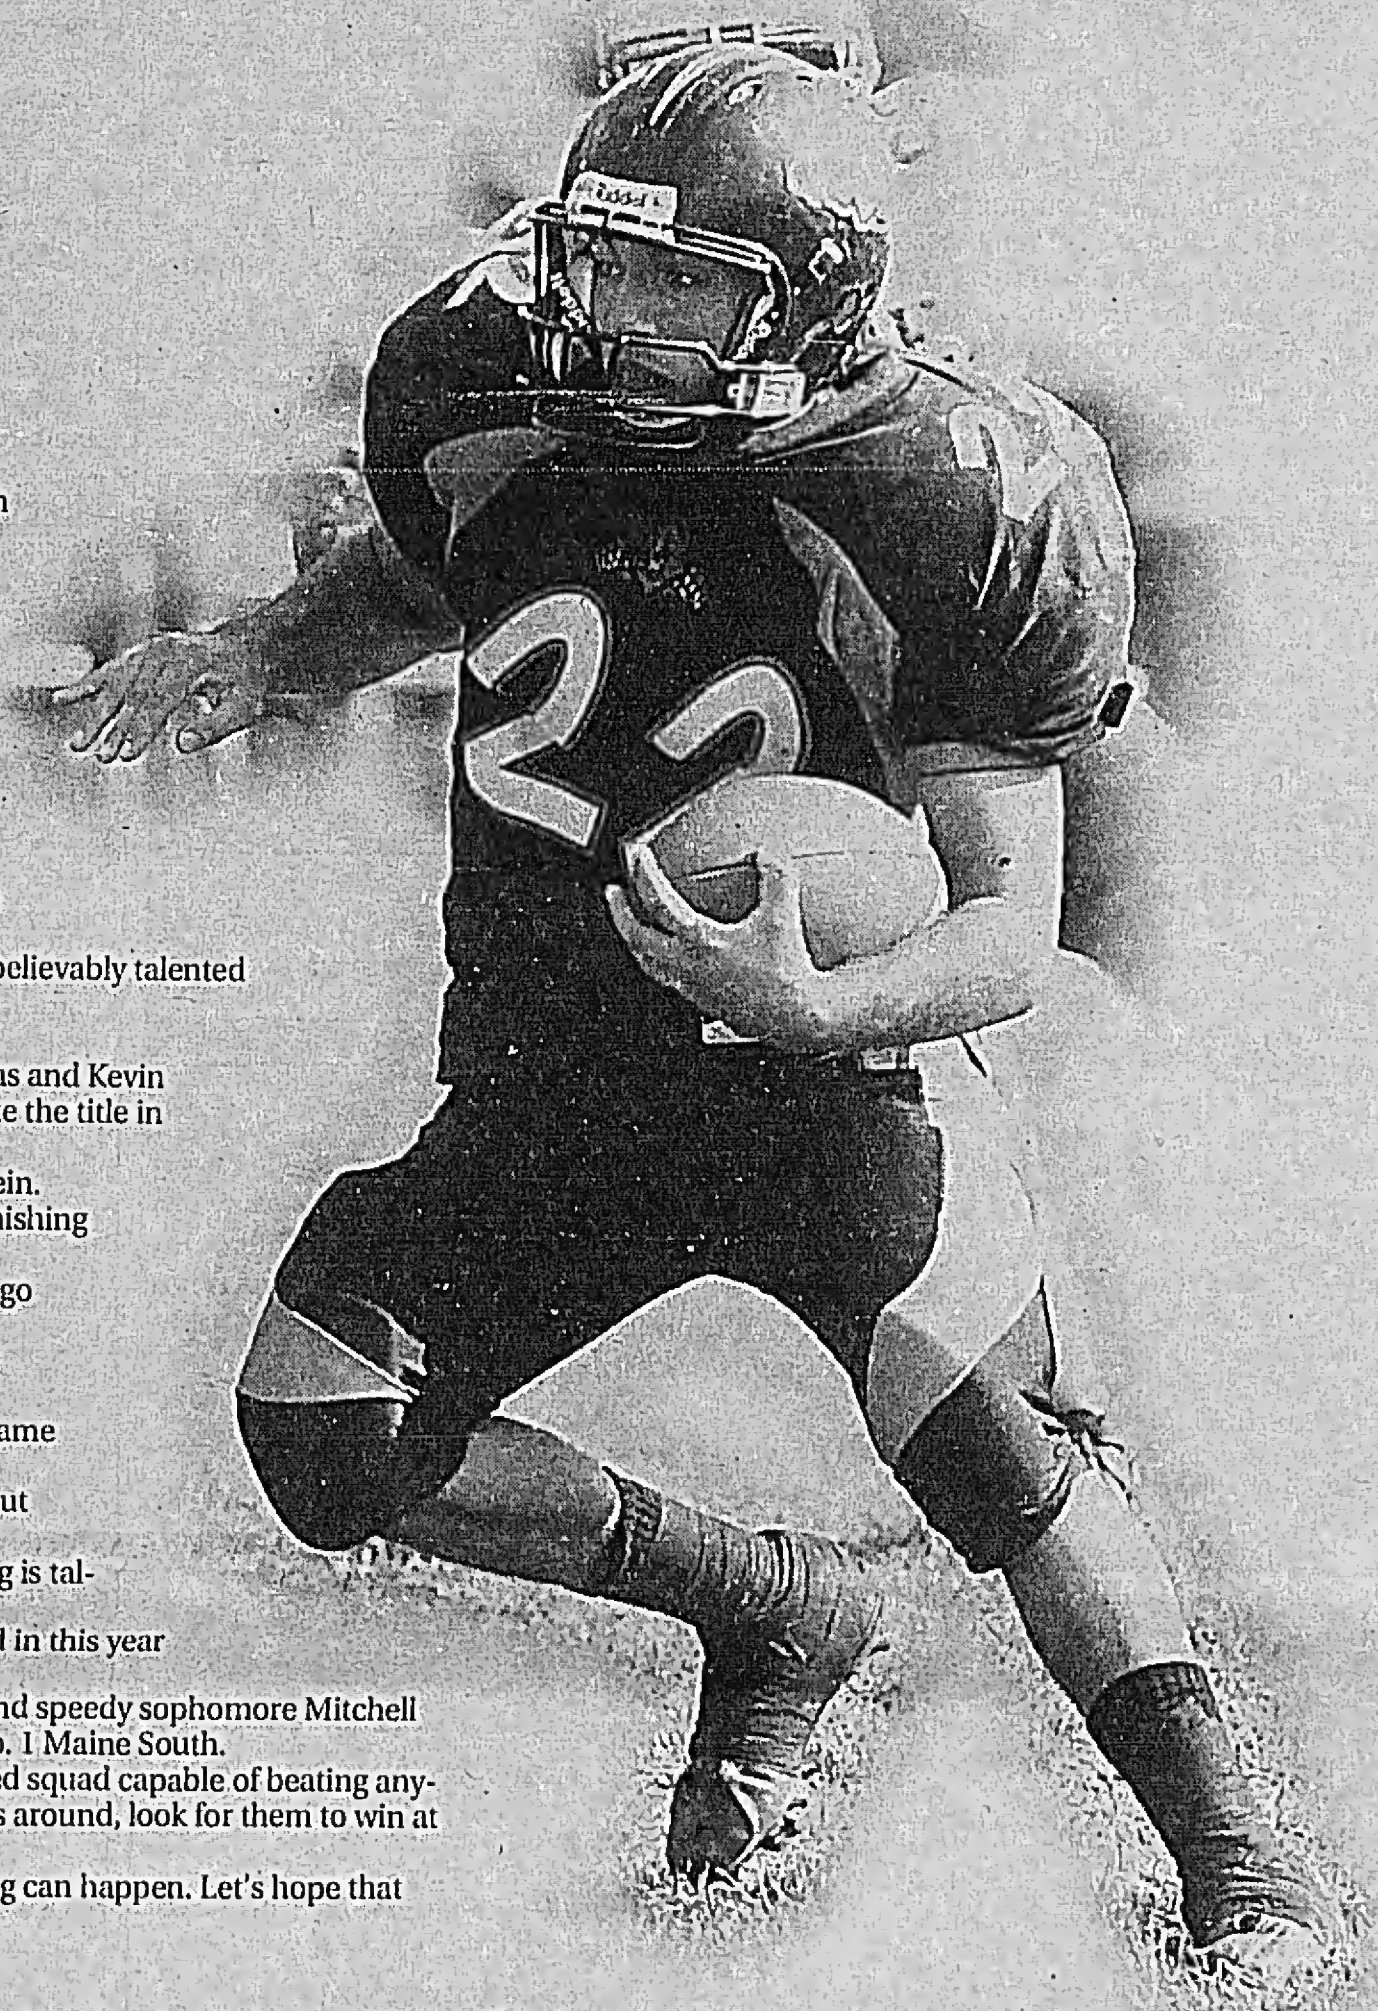

Although this is first-year head coach Chad Hetlet's first post-season berth, Johnsburg is talented enough to make some noise in Class 4A.

Warren has made the post-season a regular occurrence, even though it just squeaked in this year with a 5-4 record.

But the Devils have a lot of talent in the backfield, with bruising runner Matt Brocki and speedy sophomore Mitchell Moore. If their defense can hold up, the Devils have a chance to pull off a shocker over No. 1 Maine South.

Although Vernon Hills didn't get a home game in the opening round, it's still a talented squad capable of beating anyone on any given day. If its offense, led by QB Chris Howard and RB James Bedolla, comes around, look for them to win at least a few games in Class 6A.

In fact, any team can win a game in the playoffs. The records are now 0-0 and anything can happen. Let's hope that it's nothing but good things for Lakeland-area teams!

Class 4A

Johnsburg (7-2) at Byron (7-2)

Time: Friday, Oct. 31, 7 p.m.

Key players: RB Rick Rysso, Sr.; QB Ryan Freund, Sr.; RB/DB Ryan Stefka, Sr.; WR/DB/K Joseph Lusk, Sr.; WR George Salminen, Sr.

What to expect: Johnsburg may be happy to be in Class 4A, but the Skyhawks are none too pleased to be facing a division rival again.

The Skyhawks, 7-2, face Byron away Oct. 31 in a first-round playoff clash. The Skyhawks beat the Tigers 14-7 in Big Northern Red Division play earlier this season.

All starters are expected to be back for the Skyhawks, although Ryan Stefka and Rick Rysso both had to come out of a 28-7 loss to Burlington with injuries.

"We have some banged up players, but everyone should be ready to go for Byron," said head coach Chad Hetlet, making his playoff debut.

Johnsburg comes in with an offense averaging 26.8 points per game and a defense surrendering only 13 points per game. Quarterback Ryan Freund has notched 1,400 yards through the air to several receivers.

The Skyhawks had the early lead against unbeaten Burlington on a 4-yard TD run by Stefka in the first quarter.

"We had three turnovers and they had a short field, inside our 25, for three of their drives and they converted on a long pass. We made a few mistakes," Hetlet said of BC.

Byron was behind Burlington Central and Johnsburg in division standings, 3-2, but earned the first-round home game. "All the offenses at this point are playing well, so it is up to who stops whom on defense," Hetlet said.

Byron's losses came to BC and Johnsburg.

Johnsburg brings a 2-5 playoff record to the first round game.

Prediction: Johnsburg 20, Byron 14.

Class 6A

Vernon Hills (7-2) at Crystal Lake South (7-2)

Time: Saturday, Nov. 1, 3 p.m.

Directions: Take Route 22 west to Route 14 west. Stay on Route 14 until you reach McHenry Avenue on west side of Crystal Lake and turn left. School is two miles down the road on the right side.

Key players: QB Chris Howard, Sr.; RB James Bedolla, Jr.; DB Andy Wenman, Sr.; LB Zax Foster, Sr.; WR/DB Ryan Dunn, Sr.

What to expect: The Vernon Hills Cougars have been called the Cardiac Cougars for their knack to always pull out victories when all seems against them.

This year, a talented group of Cougars could be called the Versatile Cougars. Offense, defense, special teams, these players do it all. They will be looked to do just that as the Cougars head into the 3 p.m. clash Nov. 1 at Crystal Lake South. The Cougars made the playoffs for the third straight year, this time in Class 6A.

"Andy Wenman accounted for points for us in almost every way that you can," said head coach Tony Monken. "He kicks extra points, field goals, running back, strong safety, breaks up the wedge on kickoff returns and has two-point conversions."

Ryan Dunn is a senior who is a receiver, free safety, punt returner, on-side kick team," Monken said. "We're a small school of 1,100 kids playing big time football due to opponents' enrollments."

The Cougars have been playing well since a loss to Zion-Benton served as a "wake-up call," Monken said. A 17-0 win over Round Lake claimed a share of the NSC Prairie crown and playoff bid. A rainy, slick field greeted both teams in Round Lake.

"We made some mistakes, but given them credit. They did some things that we did not expect," Monken said.

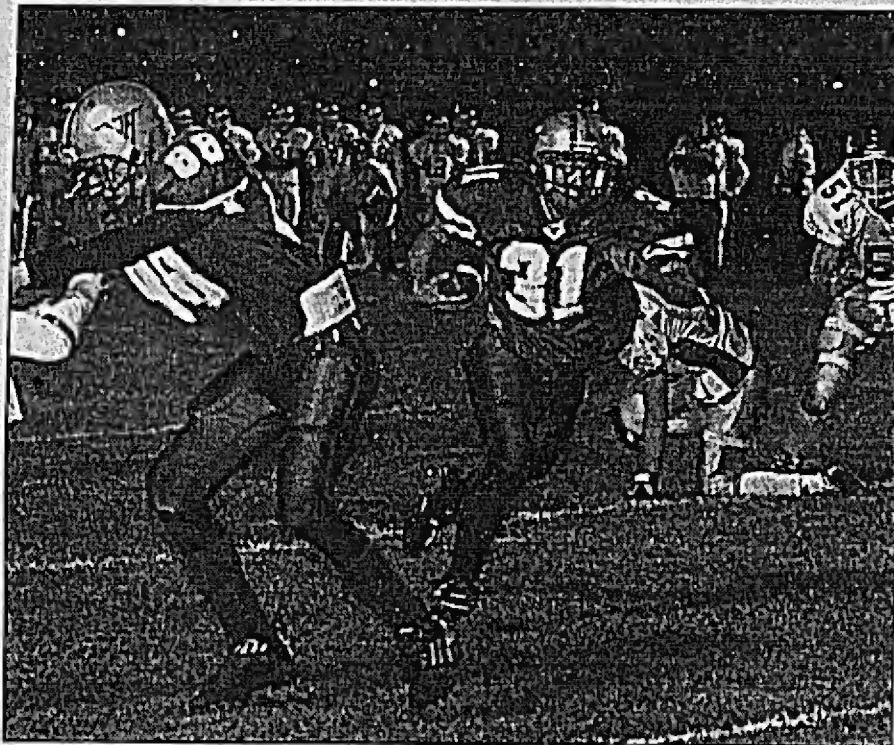

James Bedolla, a junior, continues to be a force out of the backfield for the Cougars. He has nine touchdowns and 874 yards rushing. QB Chris Howard has 570 yards and 4 touchdowns.

South is coming off an 18-17 win over Rock Falls. Its only losses came to Fox Valley powers McHenry and Lake Zurich. Top players are QB Kevin Brockway and wide receiver David Atkinson. South's offense amassed 244 points, third best in the FVC.

Vernon Hills has two wins in its two playoff years. The Cougars beat Chicago Marshall 27-0 and Rich East 42-26 two years ago before losing to Rochelle 46-16. Last year, Vernon Hills beat Harper 43-16 but lost to Mt. Carmel 34-8.

The winner moves on to face the Notre Dame-Carmel winner in the Class 7A quadrant.

Prediction: Vernon Hills 20, Crystal Lake South 17.

Class 6A

Notre Dame (5-4) at Carmel (9-0)

Time: Friday, Oct. 31, 7 p.m.

Key players: QB Mark Venegoni, Sr.; RB Mike Serio, Sr.; DB Pat Kimener, Sr.; RB Jon Popovitch, Sr.; WR Jack Simmons, Sr.

What to expect: Carmel comes in with its second straight ESCC title, its second straight unbeaten season and expectations are even higher after the team demolished rival Joliet Catholic 41-14 in the season finale.

While the Corsairs should roll through at least the first three rounds of the playoffs, the team drew a tough opening round matchup in perennial rival Notre Dame.

"It's a tough draw," Carmel coach Andy Bitto said. "We were banking on playing new teams in the post-season. But Notre Dame sees us all the time."

In fact, Notre Dame saw Carmel earlier this season and the Corsairs prevailed 45-19. But don't let that score fool you. Except for this season and a similar drubbing two seasons ago, 13 of the last 15 games between these two teams have been decided by 7 points or less.

As far as the game itself goes, Bitto expects the Dons to make some adjustments after seeing Carmel just a few weeks ago.

"They're going to put 10 men in the box," Bitto said. "So we're going to have to throw the ball 15-20 times to be successful."

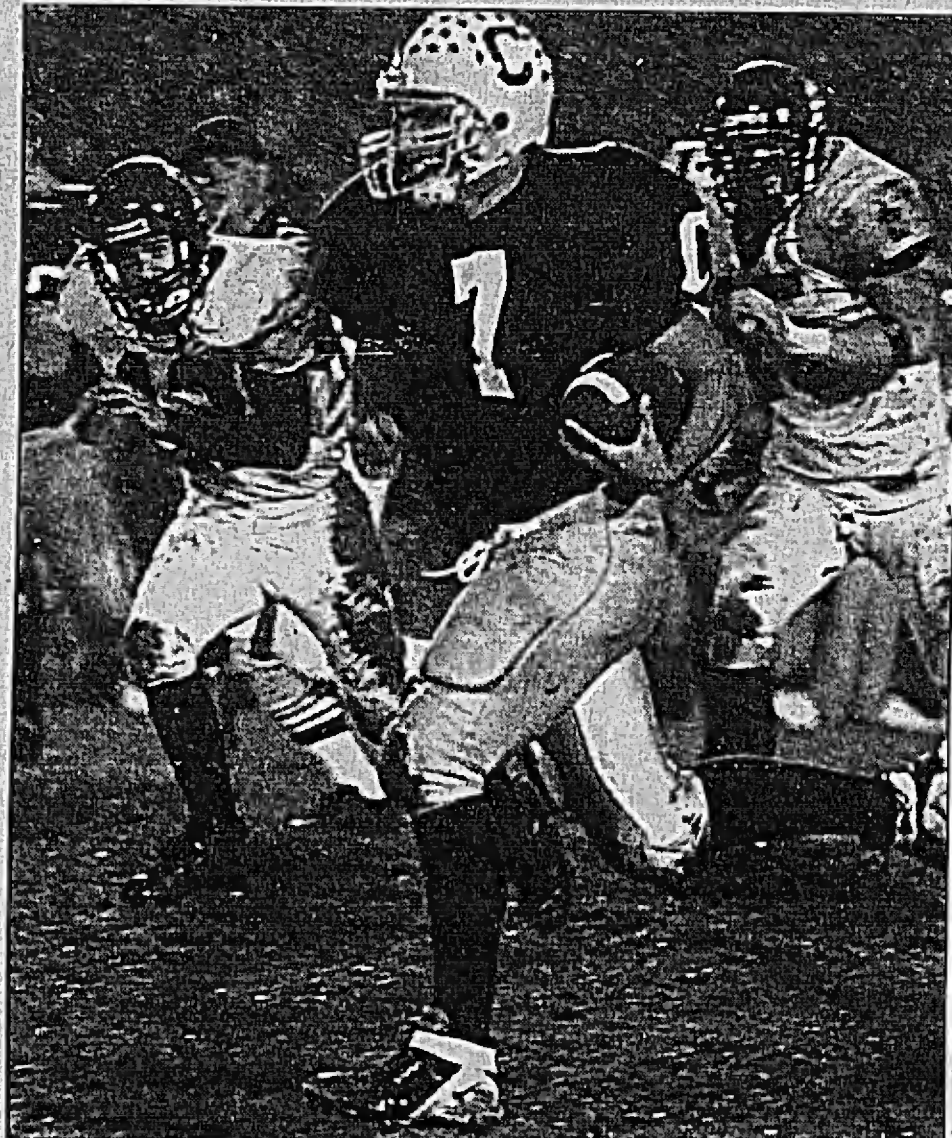

The plan to air it out is a change from Carmel's usual m.o., which is to run the ball 40 times per game.

But the Corsairs have shown the ability to throw when they need to, as evidenced on two long pass plays against Joliet Catholic last weekend.

"We've been able to get big plays when the defense stacks the line of scrimmage," Bitto said. "But we're going to run until they force us to throw."

If Carmel is able to throw the ball effectively, it should have no trouble advancing to the second round.

Prediction: Carmel 35, Notre Dame 14

Class 6A

Zion-Benton (5-4) at Grayslake (7-2)

Time: Friday, Oct. 31, 7 p.m.

Key players: QB Drew Gallagher, Sr.; RB Brian Centella, Jr.; RB Adam Dones, Sr.; LB Doug Hanson, Jr.; DL Corey Williams, Sr.

What to expect: Grayslake comes in with the best defense in the area, allowing just 7 points per game.

But the defensive unit will have its hands full against a very speedy Zion backfield, led by QB Julian Lott and backs Jimel Denham and Quincy Rogers.

"Zion is very fast, the fastest team we'll play," Grayslake coach Vito Andriola said. "But we'll do what we have to do. We're going to attack and hopefully stop them before they get going."

One problem the Zee-Bees do have, though, is the tendency to shoot themselves in the foot with untimely penalties and turnovers.

"Zion makes mistakes," Andriola said. "We can't make mistakes; we can't let Grayslake beat Grayslake. If we can avoid that we'll have a good chance."

On offense, Grayslake doesn't have anything new in the works; it will be business as usual.

The Rams run an option attack, led by Adam Dones (794 yards, 5 TDs), Brian Centella (387 yards, 5 TDs), Matt Mulvaney (281 yards, 3 TDs) and Brian Engelhardt (275 yards, 1 TD).

Occasionally, Grayslake throws the ball and has enjoyed success at times, behind QB Drew Gallagher (43-for-89, 558 yards, 6 TDs, 4 INT). Gallagher has also contributed a team-high 6 TDs on the ground.

"We're just going to run our usual offense and do what we can," Andriola said. "We don't want to change what we're doing. We'll take what they give us."

The Rams do come in on a high note, winning their last two games of the season after dropping a heartbreaker to McHenry, 16-0.

"Our attitude is right where it needs to be," Andriola said. "We have a lot of confidence heading into the post-season."

Prediction: Grayslake 24, Zion-Benton 7

2002 Record: 9-2 (Class 7A)

Warren (5-4) at Maine South (9-0)

Time: Saturday, Nov. 1, 1 p.m.

Directions: Take I-94 south and exit at Golf Road (east). Go one block to Potter and head south to Busse and turn left. Take Busse to Dee Road and turn right. Maine South is on Dee Road.

Key players: QB Garren Zurfass, Jr.; WR Kyle Haegers, Sr.; DB Ryan Williams, Sr.; RB Mitchell Moore, So.; RB Matt Brocki, Sr.

What to expect: Scheduling New Trier and Maine South as your non-conference football games may have been a blessing in disguise for Warren High.

The Blue Devils opened the season with a 21-20 loss to New Trier and 34-14 to powerful Maine South. Warren has another chance at unbeaten Maine South at 1 p.m. Nov. 1 at the Park Ridge school in the first round of the Class 8A playoffs.

"They have all the phases of the game. We have a lot of respect for Maine South. At the same time, it is the playoffs and anything goes," said Warren coach Dave Mohapp.

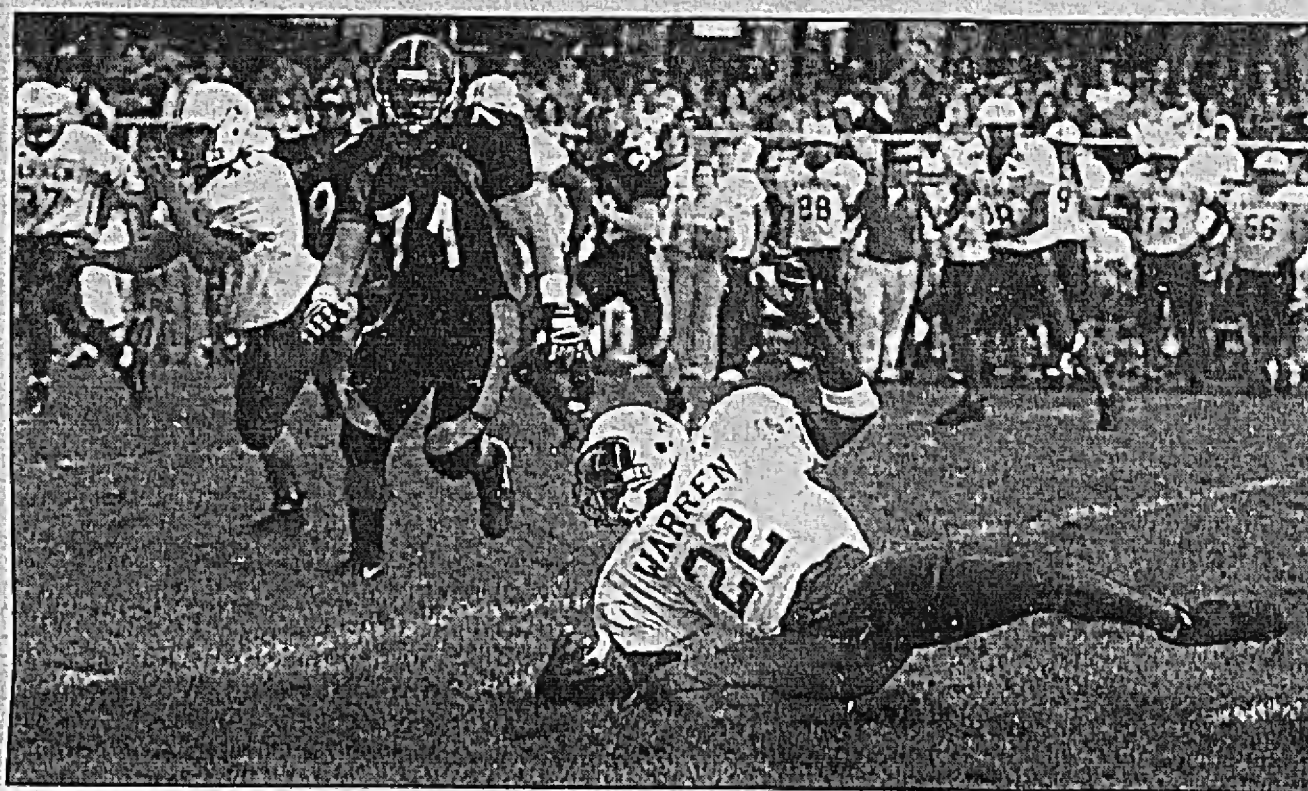

Just who will start at quarterback for Warren, 5-4, was not known early this week. Junior Joel David got the call and played well in a 27-20 loss to Stevenson in the final regular-season game. Garren Zurfass had suffered a concussion the week before.

Maine South is led by QB Sean Price. He had a typical game against Waukegan, for him, throwing for 267 yards and 4 touchdowns in an easy 41-8 win. Price is a good as they get, and appears to be blitz-proof, as he is physically big as well as talented. "He has the whole package," Mohapp said.

Mitchell Moore is a sophomore running back from Warren Maine South will have to contend with. Then there are wide receiver Kyle Haegers (25 catches before the Stevenson game) and senior running back Matt Brocki (more than 800 yards rushing). Defensive lineman Kevin Pollard and Neil Goheen have dominated at times.

Warren hopes for a better showing than a 30-3 loss to Barrington that ended 2002 at 8-2 after making the quarterfinals the year before.

Prediction: Maine South 30, Warren 17.

Antioch (5-4) at Libertyville (9-0)

Antioch's Tom Rompella (#34) along with Nate Hughes and Nick Nathan, will be key if the Sequoits hope to pull an upset over No. 1 ranked Libertyville.—Photo by Steve Young

Time: Friday, Oct. 31, 7 p.m.

Antioch key players: QB Randy Frolich, Sr.; RB Nate Hughes, Jr.; RB Tom Rompella, Sr.; DB Nick Nathan, Jr.

Libertyville key players: QB Chris Jansen, Sr.; RB/DB

Santino Panico, Sr.; RB John Haas, Sr.; RB Kevin Fontana, Sr.

What to expect: It's always tough beating a team twice, especially within a two-week span and especially on Halloween, when spooky things have a way of happening. Libertyville, which put the finishing touches on its fourth straight North Suburban title with a 48-6 drubbing over Lake Forest last weekend, outslugged Antioch 49-31 in Week 8. Cats head coach Randy Kuceyeski knows exactly what to expect this time around. "They (Antioch) have a big offensive line and all of their running backs run hard," he said. "Two of those backs (Tom Rompella and Nick Nathan) didn't play in the game two weeks ago because of injury. They'll be back for this game and that challenges us, especially psychologically and how to stop all of them."

Libertyville has a pretty talented trio of its own in the backfield with Santino Panico (over 1,000 yards rushing, 17 TD's for season), Kevin Fontana (800 yards) and Jon Haas (600 yards).

When not pounding the ball on the ground, Chris Jansen has aired it out for over 950 yards, 400 of those to Panico. All combined, this offense has put some pretty big numbers on the board this season. The running game averages around 300 yards while the aerial attack has produced over 100 yards per contest. The final product has Libertyville averaging 42 points a game.

Antioch, which cruised past Mundelein 62-28 in the season finale to earn the at-large spot, will hope to answer Libertyville's rushing game with a pretty potent one of its own. Rompella, Nathan and Nate Hughes all rushed for over 100 yards as the Sequoits pounded out over 500 yards on the ground in the Mundelein win.

The offensive line consisting of guys like Robby Perrone, Nick Fullerton, Brian Blackowicz, Nick Godin, Greg Lyons and Brad Nelson will have to continuously open the holes for the running game to be effective.

"We're just going to stick to the same philosophy," said Sequoit head coach Del Pechauer. "Pound the ball on the ground and putt together long, sustained drives."

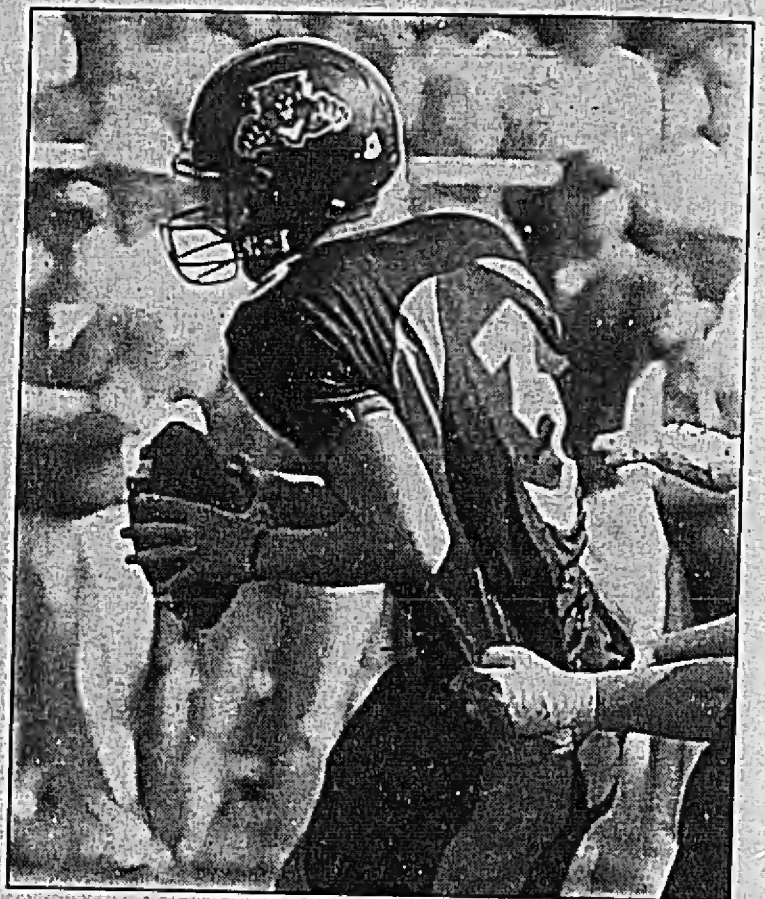

Senior defensive end Chris Kiddoo added, "our chemistry has been great. We're not concerned with who we play, that we can't be afraid of anyone. Players on our team have done a great job of correcting their mistakes by the time the next game comes around. Hopefully, we can keep up the momentum we regained last week."

Momentum was a big factor in the teams' first meeting. Big plays were the story for Libertyville, especially on defense. Kenny Klassman and Panico returned interceptions for scores, while on offense Fontana had a 69-yard touchdown run and Haas caught a 60-yard strike from Jansen.

"We're definitely focused," Kuceyeski said. "Our defense has been what's stepped up as the season has progressed. We'll be ready. Ideally, we'd like to have 10-play drives and run some clock."

It's Halloween and it's the playoffs. We'll see who will be going home with a second-round treat and who will be going home with an empty bag.

Prediction: Libertyville 49, Antioch 35

FANTASY FOOTBALL MONTHLY 2003
(Touchdowns Only!!!)

Fantasy Football season is here again! For many Lakeland readers, the very thought sends their hearts racing. But for others, the question may be, "What is fantasy Football?"

One of the most popular games across the country, fantasy Football comes in many different forms, with each allowing football fans to draft their "own" team every Sunday afternoon and/or Monday/Thursday night.

Lakeland Newspapers began their league 3 years ago. This year the following rules apply: readers must pick one quarterback, two running backs and two wide receivers and a tightend. Lakeland Newspapers Fantasy Football Monthly counts only touchdowns.

Your team is good for one month and one month only. Entries must be post marked by the last day of the previous month in order to enter the next month's contest. For example, October 31 is the last day to enter the November contest. You must re-enter each month. After the last game of the month is played, the total amount of touchdowns scored by your six players is counted and whichever reader has the most total touchdowns wins. In the event of a tie, Lakeland will count the touchdowns of the candidate's "write-in" players. One entry per person. Winner will be mailed a check for $100.

Lakeland Newspapers will publish a fantasy Football column each week tips and player news. Don't forget that schedule plays a big role in which players choose. Just because someone may be the league's best player, does not necessarily mean that they will be the best player that month. And don't forget the bye weeks.

Good luck and get those entries in.

My response to 'Anonymous' AA

First of all, I want to thank you for your letter that embellishes your views regarding my "lay opinions," and my "impulsive and unsubstantiated assumptions" on the subject of alcoholism. I am not sure, however, just what you mean by the term "lay." Perhaps if it were that the letters, MD, followed my name, or if I were a member of AA or Al-Anon, what I said would be gospel. But nevertheless, as a medical writer with a graduate degree in communications, I have diligently attempted in my writings to impart not only my experience involving the subject, but provide you, the reader, with substantiated research to support my views that I will again present in this column.

It was certainly not my intent to downplay the seriousness of alcohol abuse, nor criticize Alcoholics Anonymous 12 Step program for their success in helping some of the population. Nor did I attempt to undermine the power of faith in healing. Medicine today recognizes three realms of healing: along with the physical and the mental, is the spiritual. It is difficult to refute the surmounting medical evidence pointing out the direct relationship of spirituality to promoting health. The last two decades have shown a shift among medical professionals toward the view of the interconnectedness of prayer and healing.

As I wrote in my articles, I truly believe it had to be a case of Divine intervention that led my friend down the road to recovery. This however, is not at all the same as the religious indoctrination program of Alcoholics Anonymous whose mission it is to instill in the alcoholic the concept that we are completely powerless and the only way to recover is to submit to a Higher Power.

Obviously, you're one of the fortunate whom AA has helped. As my editor's note states at the bottom of your unsigned letter, "The writer described a background of homelessness and dereliction." I applaud both you and Alcoholics Anonymous for your remaining sober for more than 20 years. It worked for you. Unfortunately, this is not the case for everyone who comes to an AA meeting seeking help.

ON CALL

The statistics are out there. In Susan Powter's eye opening book, "Sober—and Staying That Way," recovery rate of Alcoholics Anonymous is represented as 7-12 percent. Even more discouraging are the statistics in Charles Bufe's, "Alcoholic's Anonymous: Cult or Cure?" Chapter 7, titled "How Effective is AA?" points out that along with AA's resistance to having its effectiveness measured by outside studies, AA's own figures show unimpressive results.

- For every 100 persons who begin AA in any given year, only five are still in AA and still sober a year later—according to AA's own 1989 surveys.

- At least half—perhaps as many as nine out of 10 alcoholics in the U.S. have been to an AA meeting once in their lives. Yet only about 5-8 percent of alcoholics return often enough for AA to be counted as members and make a difference.

- According to AA's own claim, 45 percent of its members in 1996 had at least five years sobriety. This means that only about 2-4 percent of alcoholics in the U.S. achieved five years sobriety in AA.

- A comparative study of AA-based therapy by Harvard Professor George Vaillant, found that the rate of relapse for those who had participated in the AA program was no different than the untreated control group.

The American Journal of Public Health, 1996, published a study, "Recovery from Alcohol Problems with and without Treatment: Prevalence in Two Population Surveys," by Linda and Mark Sobel, both PhDs and John A. Cunningham, PhD. What this demonstrated is that for the majority of individuals (over 77 percent) who maintained recovery from alcohol problems for one year or more, did so without help or treatment (natural recovery). The treatment programs mentioned included Alcoholics Anonymous.

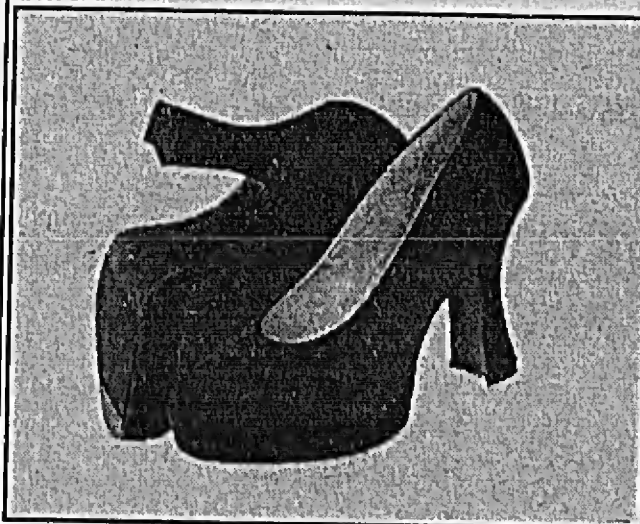

Their findings basically support a growing body of evidence that many individuals with alcohol abuse problems recover on their own. That is what my friend did. It was not because he attended AA's 12 Step program that hammers the psychological notion that we are powerless and have no will of our own. It occurred very suddenly. It was his own free will and self-determination that provided the impetus for him to make the life-saving decision to cut out the booze.

Combined with a rather drastic change in his diet that Susan Powter talks about—adding lots of carbohydrates in the form of fruit to replace his cravings for alcohol, this is what is helping him to remain sober.

Having the self-motivation, self-esteem and believing in one's own inner strength and power to stop drinking, does not negate the role of prayer and belief in that Higher Power. What the issue is about is simply this: One does not have to be instructed in the AA ideology of helplessness, powerlessness, and dependence on others in order to recover.

So, Mr. or Ms. Anonymous, please don't accuse me of not realizing the researched evidence indicating that faith and prayer aid healing and recovery. And don't think for one minute that I do not take seriously the fatal consequences of alcoholism. I was the one who never gave up hope and who never stopped praying for my friend's life. I knew the booze was killing him. Then, one day, he made a decision. Nobody forced him. There were no meetings, no lectures, and no sponsors. He just decided to stop. Yes, he did.

There really is a difference between processing problems and learning disabilities and their treatment

Hi Dr. Singer,

We just attended a staffing at our son's school. He has had ongoing problems and has been receiving services. We just had him re-evaluated there and at the staffing, they used the words processing problems and learning disabilities interchangeably. I have a little bit of background in education and always thought these were different but now I am confused. I want to make sure we are doing the most we can to help our son, but I'm not sure we are right now. I know you have written about this so I think you can answer my question. Can you tell me your thoughts on whether processing problems are the same or different from learning disabilities and whether the treatment of them is the same? Thanks you for your help. B.T.S.

Hi B.T.S.,

I believe that processing problems and learning disabilities are very different and should be treated differently. There is only one small area of crossover I can think of, which I will discuss later. The best way that I know to explain the difference between the two is to get you thinking about a weed in your garden. The weed on the surface is what you see. It can be small or large. The weed represents the learning disability. This would usually show up in an academically based problem like reading, math, spelling, etc. Anyone who has done any gardening knows that even the smallest weed can have a root that goes down to the center of the earth! The root is what I consider to be the processing problems. These are represented by things like an inability to organize or multi-task, weak listening skills, slow processing speed, short visual memory. They are the foundation of absorbing any academics and if weak can cause lots of problems.

The treatment for a learning disability usually takes the form of academic help in the weak subject or an adult helping to make sure the child has everything he or she needs. An adult helping to organize the child. Let's think logically about this. If you cannot multi-task effectively, if you cannot remember verbal directions, if you have weak ability to make visual images or if you are slow on the uptake, academics are going to be very difficult for you to absorb and manipulate without outside help. In other words, if the underlying processing skill is lacking, helping the surface academic problem will have minimal success. So, many kids are getting the academic help (and this is not bad thing) but if they have not practiced and learned how to process the information correctly and quickly, they will probably always need extra help from someone else (parents or teachers,) making them very dependent. This can really interfere in how far they can go in their future. If they get the practice with the root processing skills, they have a chance at becoming independent and being able to handle absorbing more of the academics that come their way, thus having more of a chance to go further in their lives.

PARENT'S PLACE

Many times I have seen underlying processing problems incorrectly diagnosed as attention problems. If a child cannot multi-task or organize multiple levels of information coming at him at once, as in a classroom situation, that child will bore much easier and more likely go off-task simply because he is not involved in what is going on in the class. He is losing pieces of information because he does not know how to gather all of it and organize it at once. This also causes him to need things re-taught later and to increase his homework load. This causes both kids and parents great frustration. The right kind of practice can help this.

Avid gardeners also know what happens to a weed if you try to pull it and miss some of the root. If you only treat the weed or the academic learning part of it, chances are the problems will come back again and again as the difficulty level becomes harder in further years of school.

The one area of crossover in the terms learning disabilities and processing problems is that of receptive or expressive language difficulties. That is an auditory processing issue. There is still going to be differences in the LD version of treatment versus the processing problem style of treatment to make this better.

Now, let's make sure we are straight on something. My writing is not suggesting in any way that the school is doing something wrong. They are not. School is a place where learning or academics is the 1st priority. They are meeting that need with academic remediation. The type of training I am talking about for processing skills is usually done privately. So, I am not writing this to have you go back and become angry at the school. If you truly want to help your child and you think that processing is a problem for him, you need to do the processing part on your own privately and then let the school do their thing with the LD. I do not know your son or his specific problems and I am only going on what you have told me about your knowledge so I cannot really recommend anything specific now. If you suspect processing problems, I can help you to identify what those are for your son and get them fixed while the school is focusing on the LD issues. If that is something you want, you would need to call again and leave a number.

One last thing. Do not get upset with the school personnel for interchangeably using these two terms (processing problems and learning disabilities.) Many people in the educational and psychological world do think of these things as the same. I just don't, and my approach becomes different because of that.

Hope this helps! Good luck in whatever you decide to do.

Make the link between diabetes and heart disease

Diabetes is a complex disease that can be difficult to understand and an even greater challenge to manage. The most life-threatening complications of diabetes are heart disease and stroke, which strike two out of three people with diabetes. Alarmingly, most people who have diabetes are unaware of their increased risk for heart disease and stroke. The good news is that people with diabetes can help reduce these risks by understanding and properly managing their disease.

First, managing the ABCs of diabetes -- A1C (a blood test which provides a "big picture" of your average blood sugar), Blood pressure and Cholesterol -- will help reduce the risk for heart disease, stroke and other health problems. Beyond managing the ABCs, successful diabetes care also means understanding the disease itself and how it affects your body. Link for Life is an interactive, online tool filled with practical tips and valuable information about diabetes.

"Type Two Lou," an animated character who hosts the program, takes visitors into a virtual classroom, Diabetes 101. Link for Life consists of four distinct "courses":

1. What is diabetes?
2. Diabetes and related health problems
3. The ABCs of diabetes
4. Medications

Through colorful animation, Link for Life describes how diabetes affects your body and describes the key components of diabetes care. Special features include tips on meal planning, managing medicines, diabetes self-care, and getting the most from visits with your health care providers. Most importantly, the program shows that by increasing knowledge and taking charge of diabetes, people with diabetes can reduce their risk for heart disease, stroke and other long-term health problems. To log onto Link for Life, visit www.diabetes.org/makethelink and click on the Link for Life icon in the center of the screen. # Waukegan lakefront development gets going with condos

After nearly a century of discussion and an estimated 20 plans, residential, recreational and amenity development will soon begin at the Waukegan lakefront. Initial efforts will be near its large prestige harbor.

The development process moved forward when the Waukegan Port District presented its Harbor City plans to the Waukegan Development Commission meeting in city hall for 866 condominium units in six initial residential lakefront buildings. The first building is 11 stories tall with 139 one, two and three bedroom units in a neighborhood called "Harbor Place."

Waukegan Mayor Richard Hyde said plans are to break ground in the spring when all of the permit processing is expected to be completed. "This is the first of many tangible benefits for Waukegan from the planning efforts of the last two years."

Waukegan's lakefront, totaling some 1,400 acres, is the largest tract of Illinois Lake Michigan lakefront land from Wisconsin to the Indiana state lines available for development and waterfront living.

The initial construction will be on the city lakefront east of Waukegan's downtown and its Metra train station. Most of the land to be used for Harbor City is owned by the Waukegan Port District with additional acres purchased from businesses. One of the sites acquired is that of the former Mathon's Restaurant. Hyde said that he would like to see another seafood restaurant that will help Waukegan regain its lakefront reputation as a world class dining destination.

The ground level of the buildings will house retail establishments, which may include shops, restaurants, offices, art galleries, boutiques and other desirable amenities. Parking will be above ground. Every condo will have a view of the lakefront and Lake Michigan, which is one of the key design principles that consultants from Skidmore Owings & Merrill suggested in its lakefront study.

An upscale hotel of approximately 300 rooms is included in the proposal presented Tuesday. A boardwalk will be built along Harbor Place. Also included will be parks, walking and bicycle riding paths, gardens and other attractions. Condo buyers can walk to and from their boats, to work and to the train as well as walking or bicycling to enjoy the beauty of the lakefront.

Hyde said he expects the lakefront to evolve into a delightful residential site and tourist destination, with many plans now underway to make this happen. He also remarked the city has plans to preserve the marine recreational uses to the harbor by assisting in the relocation of boat launch ramps and the businesses that serve our boating community.

Roger Welker, chairman of the Waukegan Port District, said he believes boaters from all over Lake Michigan will sail to Waukegan to enjoy its fine harbor and lakefront. He noted that the harbor has space for nearly 1,000 pleasure boats.

Street dances, concerts and other activities that now take place at the lakefront will be complemented with other desirable public activities in the safe and secure environment of the Harbor District, said both men.

It was noted that the project will best succeed with additional amenities near the Port District land and with improved access to downtown Waukegan where new development is underway that is expected to change the look of the area.

Education is one of the building blocks for downtown and a lakefront amenity in that Shimer College is located immediately north of downtown while the College of Lake County is operating here. A multi-university program with classes from many Illinois schools will open shortly on its own nearby campus.

The Waukegan Port District operates the harbor and Waukegan Regional Airport, a major field for recreational flyers and home to many corporate airplanes. Planes fly to domestic and international cities around the world, and a U.S. Customs officer is stationed at the airport.

For more information about the lakefront condo area, call WLDC at 847-293-7678 or visit waukeganlakefront.com.

Pam Staton of Grant had a formidable task at the Antioch Class AA Regional Cross Country meet.

As the 3.0-mile race continued at Fox River Park, it became clear that Staton was the last and best hope to ruin Barrington's plans for a perfect meet score. She did just that, and qualified for the sectional cross country meet Nov. 1 at Busse Woods in Schaumburg too boot.

The other area highlight came from an entire team, as Wauconda claimed the third of five team spots, sending all of the Bulldogs to Busse Woods.

"It felt good when we started out. I was so nervous before the race, I had to calm myself," said Staton, a junior. "I wanted to stay with them the first two miles, which are hillier," Staton said.

Barrington nearly snared a perfect 15 score, but had to settle for a 17.

"Pam had a good race," said Grant coach Bill Newby.

Wauconda coach Al Willhoit was thrilled that his team took third.

"They were all ready to set school history. We came here to take a dry run of the course and they all came back, boys and girls, and said that they liked it. They were not going to be beaten by the course," Willhoit said.

Danielle Connor led the WHS effort, a team effort that saw all placers finish within a couple of minutes. Connor had a 20:02. Samantha Pancamo had a 21:14 for 19th, Samantha Kimes a 21:19 for 20th, Katie Ellis, 21:36 for 25th, Annette Hansena 21:49 for 30th and Kristen Kraus, 40th, had solid meets.

"Third was a lot better than we expected," Willhoit said.

Allyson Kim of Vernon Hills was seventh overall. Vernon Hills' schedule has some of the tougher Schaumburg Sectional teams on it, such as at the Palatine Invite, and that may help Kim, said her coach.

Round Lake's highlight was the effort of sophomore Sandra Smith. She finished in 28th place. Ashley Hussain was 36th. "Smith runs in track so she is out for conditioning," said coach Sean LaRoche.

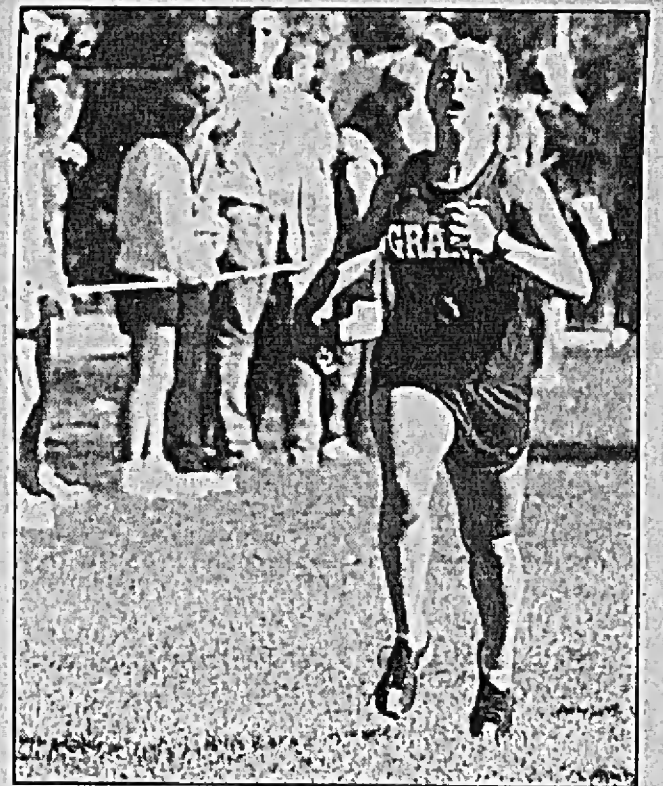

Carmel was hoping to contend for a top five team spot, but injuries continue to hamper the Corsairs' season. Sara Stolz had the best race, for 21st, in 21:23. Megan Petkus was close behind as was teammate Ashley Heilingoetter, 21:34, for 24th.

Erica Moffitt and Tammy Michaelis led Mundelein's effort, with a 19th and a 13th place overall, respectively, in 20:16 and 20:22.

Senior Katie Clarke had the best time for host Antioch, 22:00 for 35th.

Lauren Anderson will represent Grayslake as an individual qualifier at sectional. "She was our No. 2 runner the whole year, and she has been able to step up," said Rams coach Joel Peebles. "Freshman star Jenna Kuehl was unable to finish the race because of breathing difficulties. I feel sorry for her because she had a wonderful year for us until a bad cold led to further difficulties."

Team scores were: Barrington, 171 Lake Zurich 75, Wauconda 103, Grant 116 and Mundelein 128. Not-qualifying were: Carmel 143, Vernon Hills 187, Antioch 193, Grayslake 237 and Round Lake 252.

Antioch's Napier runs past competition at regional meet

By STEVE PETERSON
speterson@lakelandmedia.com

A large gathering of teammates and fans watched as Andy Napier and Jim Beatty attempted their best finishes in the Class AA meet at Fox River Park.

Some shouted the seconds that Napier would have to make up to break a record, and while he did not do that, he just about did everything else on his agenda at the last Fox River run. He won the AA meet, and the Sequoits tied Barrington for team honors with a score of 45.

Napier finished first in 15:47 on his familiar 3.1-mile course, while Beatty had a 16:09. Eric Pelfresne of Carmel was fourth in 16:35 and Wes Sheldon of Vernon Hills sixth in 16:54.

"I'm just going to go out and run my best race," Napier said of the Nov. 1 sectional meet at Schaumburg's Busse Woods. "It (the cheering) does give you a lift, and I wanted my PR and I got it," he said.

"It's just a matter of adrenaline," Pelfresne said of the finale push.

"The second mile, I hit my stride," Sheldon said. "I felt like I was coming off a good conference race."

Antioch coach David Judson was pleased with both Napier's and the overall team's finish heading into sectionals. Chad Leffelman was the third top Antioch runner, with a 17:01, good for ninth overall. David Dee was next for Antioch, 18th, in 17:29.

But not as overcome with emotion as the folks resting under the Mundelein High tent. They learned that they qualified for the first time in a while.

"It has been eight years," said head coach Marcia Sostre, in between hugs.

Senior Sean Pope led the way, with a 17th place finish in 17:28; Jim Walsh was right behind, 19th in 17:30; Erik Buchberger was 32d in 18:08; Jim Azul was 42d in 18:41; Colin Selbo was 44th in 19:02; Nick Andrysiak was 49th in 19:25.

Grant had one runner qualify as an individual, Amando Lopez, who was 25th overall. "Amando ran a good race," said coach Bill Newby.

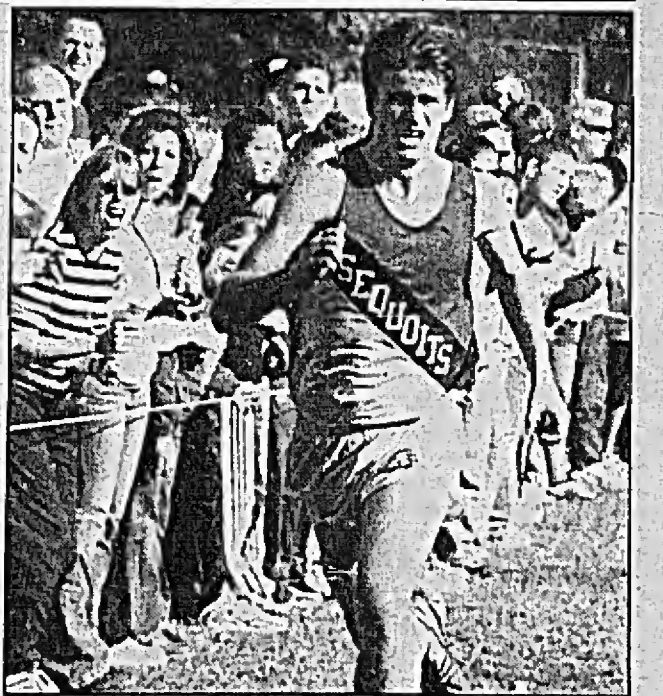

Alex Mikrut, a sophomore, and Tim Hamilton, a senior, qualified for Grayslake.

"We break our season into four phases and feel that we are peaking at the right time," said Rams coach Joel Peebles. "Mikrut and Hamilton ran great races to qualify for the sectional. We ran well as a team but just missed a sectional berth."

Ben Witte qualified for Wauconda as well.

The top five-team scores were: Mundelein with 145, Lake Zurich had 112, Carmel 91, and Antioch and Barrington won regional title plaques with a 45. Vernon Hills was seventh with a 188; Wauconda had a 196, followed by Grant, 248 and Round Lake, 269.

Mundelein edged Grayslake by four points for the final team spot.

CLC ends season on sour note

By ROB BACKUS
rbackus@lakelandmedia.com

After losing in the state title match a year ago, CLC head coach Dave Beck expected bigger and better things this time around.

While the team had a good regular season, a 12-6-1 record would indicate, the Lancers lost in the Region IV semifinals 1-0 to Moraine Valley, a team they had beaten twice in the regular season.

The difference in the game, as it had been all season, was CLC's inability to capitalize on scoring chances.

"We won and we lost some games this year by close scores that we could have won easily," Beck said.

Another thing that hurt CLC were injuries, including one to All-American Nikki Stefani that kept her out for much of the season.

In fact, the game against Moraine Valley was Stefani's first in six weeks.

"It was a tough game for her to come back for," Beck said.

Stefani is part of an 8-member sophomore class Beck was extremely pleased with.

"I've been at CLC for 16 years and this was the best sophomore class I've ever had," Beck said. "They started working in January and busted their butts preparing themselves for this year. I can't say enough about them."

Beck added, "Hopefully the freshmen class can follow their lead."

The Lancers will return a very strong freshmen class, including Kristy DeClark (18 goals, 5 assists), Michelle Mroczek (3 goals, 6 assists), Jennifer Jagla, Debbie Grant and Jenna Tabert.

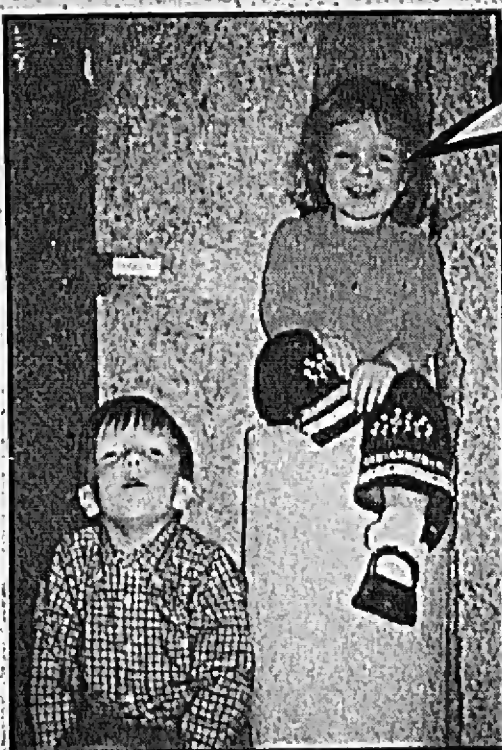

"I'm looking forward to having them back," Beck said.

Beck's expectations are similar for next season.

"I'm hoping to do exactly what we were looking to do this year," Beck said. "We want to win conference and state."

Communities get help in park planning

Seven Lake County park districts and municipalities have participated in a pilot program that has helped them assess their park and open space resources and plan for future open space needs.

The Lake County Open Space Project—provided by CorLands, a not-for-profit conservation group—and funded principally by the Grand Victoria Foundation and the Gaylord and Dorothy Donnelley Foundation. CorLands planners used Geographic Information Systems (GIS), a sophisticated computer mapping technology, to look at where parks and open space are located or needed in relation to where residents live, and how those resources will need to change to accommodate future growth.

Park districts from Buffalo Grove, Grayslake, Gurnee, Hawthorn Woods, Lindenhurst, Long Grove and Waukegan each have open space master plans as a result of the program. CorLands has begun working with an eighth community, Antioch, for the final leg of the project. The organization has been providing the planning assistance, funded by various foundations, free of charge, with the goal of helping Lake County communities that do not have extensive in-house planning capabilities.

After gathering park land, population-planning and housing-density data for each municipality, CorLands planners compared the findings with national standards for how much open space should be provided for communities of a particular size, as well as where parks should be located in relation to where people live. Armed with this information, they could tell local officials if they are adequately serving local open space needs and what they need to do to meet current and/or future needs.

CorLands then worked with the park districts and municipalities to identify opportunities to expand their existing open space holdings, ultimately assembling open space master plans for them.

"In some cases, we found that park districts might have adequate open space in terms of acreage but that the parks are not necessarily located where residents can easily get to them," said Ed Uhler, director of land acquisition planning for CorLands. "Maybe residents in one subdivision are too far from existing parks, or maybe there are obstacles such as railroad tracks that make getting to the parks a problem for young families."

"We also found that some park districts in landlocked areas thought they didn't have any options for acquiring more park land, when actually they do. The planning process helped them be more creative in their thinking," Uhler said.

'We also found that some park districts in landlocked areas thought they didn't have any options for acquiring more park land, when actually they do'

Ed Uhler
CorLands' director of land acquisition planning

Tom Lippert, executive director of the Lindenhurst Park District, agrees. "Even if you're landlocked, you never know when land might become available," Uhler said. "Let's say there's a supermarket that goes vacant. The village might consider a new occupant that needs a smaller building and less parking lot. That opens up the possibility of putting a mini-park there—some landscaping and trees—so people who work and shop in the area can enjoy it."

Chuck Balling, executive director of the Gurnee Park District, adds that an open space plan can help when time is of the essence.

"The window of opportunity for land acquisition in many communities is closing due to rapid development," Balling said. "To have a plan that identifies either all or most of (a community's) potential open space acquisitions allows you to at least be aware of what's out there and act more quickly."

United Way, Bears get together for kids

NFL players took a day off from their normal routines to spend time in local communities across the country during the fifth annual NFL and United Way Hometown Huddle.

Bryan Robinson, a Chicago Bears defensive tackle, volunteered his time with children at the Boys & Girls Club in Waukegan.

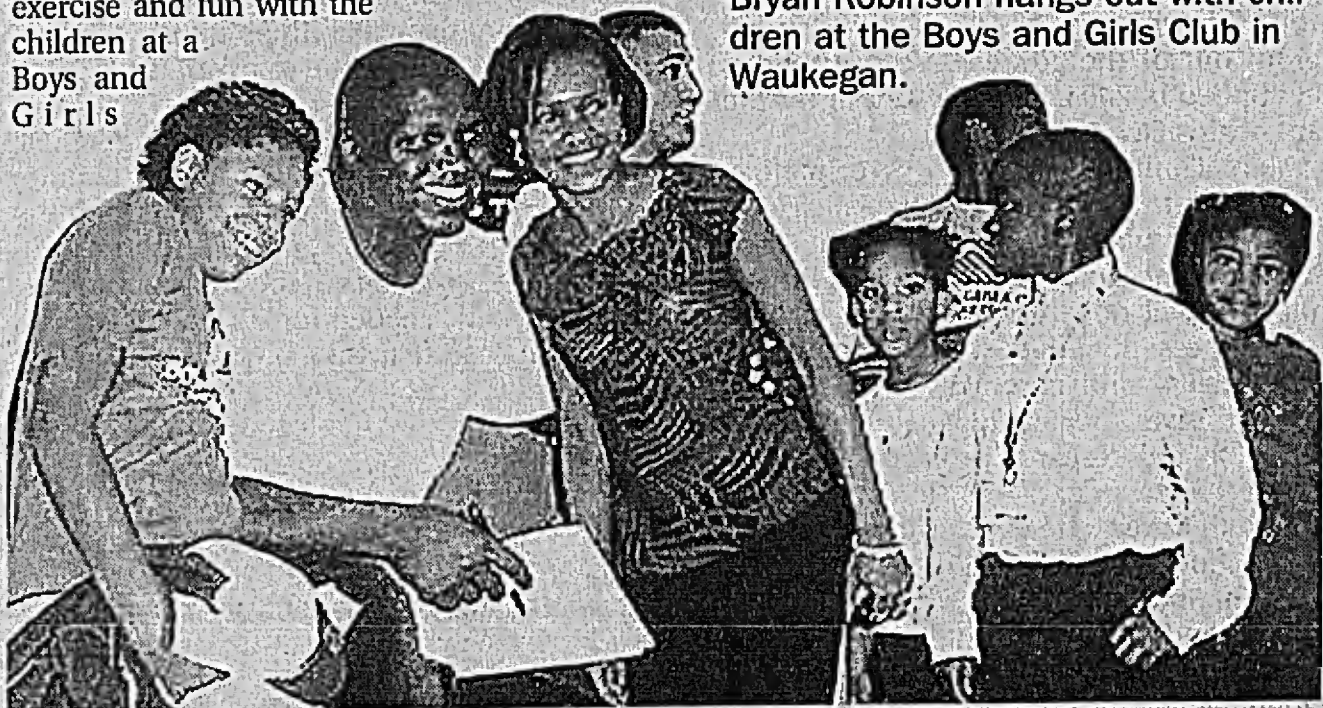

"The NFL and its teams are devoted to sharing their talents and experiences with their local communities. The dedication to people and openness of the Chicago Bears players supports and strengthens the bonds of our local communities," said John Bostrom, the Bears' director of community relations.

This year, Robinson joined United Way of Lake County volunteers and staff for some exercise and fun with the children at a Boys and Girls Club. Robinson ran sports clinics, tossed the football around, and talked to kids about their experiences. The event was a special experience that touched over 100 children's lives.

Several volunteers from Lake County corporations joined the Chicago Bears at the Boys & Girls Club to help cheer on the children and participate in the drills. John Jaraczewski from Abbott Laboratories; Tom Graber, Brian Sincora and Sarah Wieber from Motorola; and Kim Smith and Scott Swiatek from Trustmark volunteered their afternoon to make the experience even more special for the children.

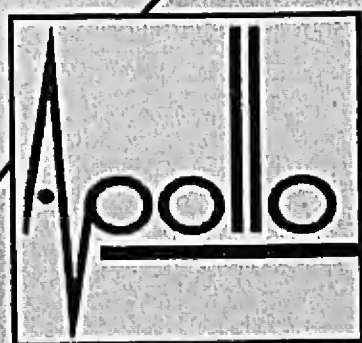

Chicago Bears defensive lineman Bryan Robinson hangs out with children at the Boys and Girls Club in Waukegan.

Shimer College wins grant

The U.S. Department of Education has announced that Shimer College in Waukegan is recipient of a five-year, highly competitive, Institutional Development Grant. Shimer is one of 74 colleges awarded a grant out of the 307 eligible institutions that applied in 2003. The award year for the grant begins Oct. 1.

Marc Hoffman, director of technology management, at Shimer College, speaks of the value of this grant to the college: "The Title III grant helps assure that Shimer's small size will not hurt our ability to offer costly but essential data services to our students, faculty and administrators. Library, administrative and academic information-sharing, faculty research projects, and other creative endeavors will all be transformed through this grant. It is welcome recognition of the value of a Shimer education by the Department of Education."

The funds will be used to support three endeavors at Shimer, all aimed at expanding academic opportunities and enhancing student support.

The first of these is the establishment of a virtual library. The grant will finance the salary and benefits for a full-time academic librarian with experience in the various aspects of a virtual library. The grant will also finance the hardware and software required as well as access to varied digital academic library resources.

The second endeavor is the expansion of science laboratory capabilities at the college. The grant will finance the salary of a laboratory specialist to administer the laboratory. It will also finance the building of a greenhouse for biology courses, the experimental equipment needed for full implementation of significant laboratory experience within the core courses, and the laboratory supplies and equipment needed for expanded offerings in physics, chemistry, biology, and environmental science.

The third is the establishment of an integrated, easily accessible database system that will provide increased student support within the financial aid office, business office, office of the registrar and other offices of the college. For this endeavor, the grant will support a contract with a consulting firm for the purpose of providing a detailed plan for the system. It will also support the purchase of the necessary software for the system.

For further information about Shimer College, contact Barbara Stone, faculty member and director of development and public relations at 847-249-7192 or via e-mail at barbara@shimer.edu.

State newspaper group honors Madigan for open meeting efforts

The Illinois Press Association presented its Legislative Service Award to Illinois Attorney General Lisa Madigan on Oct. 17 in honor of her commitment to the principles of a free and open government for all citizens of the State of Illinois.

Bruce Sagan, publisher of the Hyde Park Herald and past president of the Illinois Press Association, presented the award to Madigan during the Cook County Suburban Publishers Association's annual dinner in Oak Brook. Sagan commended Madigan for her support of newly enacted legislation strengthening the Illinois Open Meetings Act.

Each year the IPA battles legislative attempts to whittle away at access to the public information and open government laws. The targets of these efforts include open meetings, freedom of information, access to court and law enforcement records.

In recent years, the statewide newspaper organization has occasionally honored selected individuals with its Legislative Service Award. Established 14 years ago, the award acknowledges individuals who make significant contributions to assist Illinois newspapers in their legislative battles to protect the public's right to know. The award is given to an individual or individuals whose efforts truly have been exemplary.

Madigan is credited by the IPA for actively supporting and promoting the passage of what is commonly referred to as the "verbatim record" bill. The bill, which becomes effective Jan. 1, 2004, amends the Illinois Open Meetings Act by requiring all public bodies to keep an audio or video record of their closed meetings.

"Illinois Attorney General Lisa Madigan supported the verbatim record concept as a state senator long before being elected to her current office," IPA Executive Director David Bennett said at the time of the bill's passage. "Her continued support as Attorney General greatly enhanced the bill's success."

"She told us she believed in the issue when she ran for office," Bennett added. "She made good on her commitment by personally lobbying for this bill."

Bennett added that Illinois citizens are fortunate to have an attorney general that is committed to openness in government.

"Many politicians provide rhetoric to such notions as open government and the people's right to know," he said. "Lisa Madigan has demonstrated a true commitment to these concepts by backing her words with meaningful action."

The IPA is a statewide trade association representing nearly all of the daily and weekly newspapers in Illinois. With more than 600 members, the Springfield-based group is the largest statewide newspaper association in the country.

Judge Fritz discussion aired on TV

Lake County Associate Judge Michael J. Fritz participated in a panel discussion on Small Claims Court and "Pro Se" Courts to be aired on television. The show is entitled "Judicial Perspective" and is produced by the Illinois Judges Association. The program is moderated by Judge Ann B. Jorgensen, the President of the Illinois Judges Association, and was filmed at the Harold Washington Library in Chicago.

The show was taped for later broadcast on the cable access channel in and around the greater Chicago metro area (air date is to be determined). The other guests were Cook County Circuit Judges Joyce Murphy Gorman and James Brown.

Listen, Then Ask Questions In An Interview

By Scott T. Fleischmann

When I teach sales classes, I suggest that the sales process is 80% listening, and 20% talking. The interview is similar to a sales presentation. While a salesperson is helping a customer understand the benefits of the product, in an interview we are guiding the interviewer into an understanding of how our skills and experience will contribute to their organization.

The ratio above may be lower in the interview process since the company representative needs to learn more about the candidate. However, the principle is the same. Most interviewers do not listen to the questions as carefully as they should. They do not ask appropriate questions and they do not listen carefully enough. There are two primary reasons for those problems. Firstly, most candidates see the interview as a time for the company to make a decision about their skills and experience. They do not see that it is also a time for the candidate to make a decision about the company. In addition, they are afraid to ask questions that show a lack of knowledge. A different perspective on the interview is in order. Candidates need to understand that the goal of the entire hiring process is to create a match between a company that needs an employee and a person who can meet those needs. It will not be a good match if the candidate does not meet the company needs. Likewise, a company that does not meet the needs of the applicant will not be successful either.

There are typically four parts to an interview. The first step is the introduction, where the candidate and the company representative meet and exchange pleasantries. Then the interviewer usually asks the candidate questions about skills and experience. Thirdly, the interviewer will explain the company and the job. Finally, the rest of the process is explained and the interview is ended.

The third step is the candidate's opportunity to ask important questions. Prepare for these questions by finding out as much as possible about the company and the job before the interview. Most companies have a web site that gives much information. Often, these sites also include information on job openings. However, most sites do not answer all questions. So, start a list of questions, concerns and clarifications needed. Questions about the company could include specifics about the products and services they provide and the management and organizational structure. Some candidates will want to understand the financial details and ownership information if the company is not publicly held.

Questions about the job may include work hours, how the person in that job interacts with others in the organization and with customers. They may need more information on benefits and the performance evaluation process.

Although it is good to have as many of these questions identified before the interview, candidates should add questions to the list as the company representative is describing the job and the company. Even as he or she answers ones questions, additional questions may occur. The interview process is a two way street. Get as much information as possible by asking questions and listening.

MENU PAGES

Welcome to Lakeland Newspapers' fourth edition of Menu Pages!

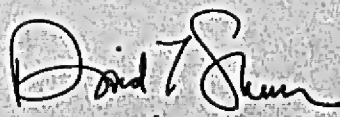

This special section is loaded with actual menus from many of the area's finest restaurants. Whether you are looking for a fancy location to take your Valentine to, a fun pizza spot for the family or just some place new and different—you can find it in Menu Pages.

More than thirty hot spots from Lake, McHenry and Kenosha county have their house specialties and prices all in one easy to store pullout section. You will want to make sure to keep this section for use during the whole year.

With Menu Pages, finding a spot to go to isn't the hard part...deciding WHICH to try first is the challenge. Either way, which ever restaurant you choose will be sure to be a good choice.

We hope you enjoy it.

Sincerely,

David Sherman

Angie's Italian Market and Café

The story behind Angie's Italian Market and Café starts in Caltabellota, Sicily. Caltabellota is the home town of Angie's mother and was where Angie spent the first 3 years of her life.

In September of 2001, Angie and her mother Tina opened a small café in Gurnee called Tina's Italian Bake Shop. With the café being such a hit Angie decided to expand the business and open another café in Antioch where she resides with her husband and children. Being the "sister establishment" to Tina's, the menu is similar, but there are a few unique touches at Angie's.

Angie's offers many traditional Italian favorites, and a lot of modern specialties. Almost all of the food at Angie's is homemade. Great care is taken not only in the preparation, but also in the presentation. The environment is relaxed just as it is in Italy. Angie regularly makes the trip back home to see what the new trends in food are. Italy is scattered with hundreds of little places like Angie's, but there is only one in Northwest Lake County. Come in and enjoy.

Bonnie Brook Gold Course Restaurant

In addition to being one of Chicagoland's Top 50 golf courses, Bonnie Brook Golf Course, located at 2800 N. Lewis Avenue in Waukegan, also houses a full service restaurant featuring soup/salads, sandwiches, beef, seafood and much more. Come visit our newly remodeled restaurant and lounge area!

Harbour Club

The Harbour Club, owned at one time by Leo Mongonen was called Bluff Lake Resort and Hotel. The infamous George (Bugs) Moran was a frequent and respected visitor at Mongonen's Resort.

In 1953 Joe and Bernice Lupa purchased the small hotel and fishing resort from Leo Mongonen, thereafter it was transformed into a marina/restaurant in the 60's and 70's. It became well known as Harbor Lights, a casual dining restaurant with additions in the 80's and 90's. The Harbour Club was established in 1999 as a casual fine dining restaurant featuring weekend entertainment, a Sunday brunch and great party facilities. The beautiful landscaping, fantastic sunsets and the view of Bluff Lake make the perfect setting for any special occasion, large or small. It also has an outdoor patio bar during the summer months. The Harbour Club is open year round for your enjoyment. Joe Pechulis welcomes you to visit and enjoy the finest restaurant on the "Chain O'Lakes."

FRESHEST BREADS	FINEST MEATS	FRESHEST VEGGIES	BEST INGREDIENTS
My thick-sliced 7-grain whole wheat and authentic French breads are made from my own secret recipe using all-natural ingredients, then baked fresh right here in the store throughout the day, every day.	I personally select the very best meats available. That means no pressed, formed, or filled meats on my sandwiches. Only juicy white turkey breast, choice roast beef, smoked Virginia ham, and real wood-smoked bacon.	I use only the freshest, best-tasting veggies around. They're sliced daily in the store and never treated or bagged for use some other day. That means crisp, fresh lettuce, tomato, onion, sprouts, and cucumber.	The world's greatest gourmet sandwiches call for the world's greatest ingredients. So I only use real Hellmann's mayonnaise, Grey Poupon mustard, and my homemade red wine vinaigrette and chunky avocado spread.

Sammies

From a 6x10 foot trailer in 1964 that their father rented for us next to the gas station near our Chicago home, Sammies sold Vienna Hot Dogs for a quarter and soft drinks for a dime that first summer. Sammies was operated seasonally six months a year. Growing up and moving on, they opened a year-round store in Chicago in 1970 and two years later in 1972 a second in Grayslake, where they turned a walk-up summertime stand into a year-round fast-food operation. Expanded several times since, that restaurant has gone from six stools to seating for 78. In 1982 they opened in partnership with Dave Keith, a third location now located at 215 W. Rollins Road in Round Lake Beach. In 1988 they sold their original store in Chicago and now operate exclusively in the Lake County area. In 1997, a new Sammies was opened in partnership with Tom Sheehan at 216 Milwaukee Ave. (Rt. 83) in Lake Villa. What hasn't changed in more than 37 years are the authentic Chicago Style Hot Dogs and other Chicago Style Sandwiches they serve. Visit all 3
